EMPIRE TRADE PACT CHANGES ARE DEBATED

Alterations in Dominions' Terms Will Meet British Farmers' Protests, It Is Said

SEPARATE TALKS WITH COUNTRIES

Canadian Press
London, Dec. 13.—No confirmation could be obtained in official circles to-day for a suggestion by a London newspaper that fresh discussions were taking place between the United Kingdom and the Dominions for voluntary modification of the intra-empire trade pacts signed at the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa last year.

At the time of the World Economic Conference here last summer, negotiations were begun for a reduction of Dominion imports into Great Britain of certain classes of products with a view to meeting the difficulties being encountered by British agriculture. It is understood these discussions are proceeding on the basis of negotiations between the United Kingdom and the Dominions separately, and the extent to which these discussions are successful will be the extent to which the Ottawa agreements are voluntarily modified, but there are no general negotiations for all-round modification.

EDMONTON WANTS $1,000,000
Edmonton, Dec. 13. (Canadian Press)—Edmonton City Council has decided to ask the federal government for an interest-free loan of a million dollars to be used in a house-building programme for relief of unemployment.

BANKER'S ESTATE NOW INSOLVENT

Many Requests to Persons and Institutions in Moose Jaw Cancelled

How the estate of a prairie banker, once wealthy, has now shrunk in value so that it is listed as bankrupt, was told before Mr. Justice Fisher in the Supreme Court here to-day when Percy Marchant, counsel, applied for letters of administration of the estate of Harold Jagger, Mr. Jagger, who owned a private bank at Moose Jaw dating back to the early days, had some 1,500 acres of developed land holdings and city real estate near and in that city, besides land in Sanich outside of Victoria, retired from active business twelve years ago and came to Victoria to live.

Mr. Marchant told the court that with values falling during recent years and money raised by mortgages to protect holdings, plus interest and taxes, the entire equity has been exhausted, and the estate is now set down as "hopelessly insolvent."

Mr. Jagger had left bequests of up to $10,000 a year to various persons, including a sister in Minneapolis. There were also substantial bequests to Anglican churches, and training schools and Providence Hospital in Moose Jaw. All these bequests have now been wiped out by the slump in value. The justice issued to Mr. Marchant the administration order applied for.

World's Largest Ship May Soon Be Afloat

With Cunard and White Star Merger Near, British Government Plans to Aid Work of Completing Building of No. 534

Canadian Press
London, Dec. 13.—Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to-day told the House of Commons negotiations for an effective merger of the Cunard and the White Star North Atlantic fleets had reached a stage justifying the assumption it would be accomplished at an early date. He said that in that event he proposed shortly to present proposals for financially facilitating the completion of the giant Cunard liner 534, which is planned to be the largest and fastest ship afloat.

When he was asked by members whether the proposals would make any reference to the possible construction of a sister ship to the 534, Mr. Chamberlain replied it would be best to await the proposals.

Police Take Steps To Check Mounting Toll of Accidents

Will Seek Power to Prohibit Jay-walking; Floodlights at Dangerous Intersections Planned; Chief Launches Safety Campaign

Large Toll Taken Among Pedestrians and Cyclists; More Hurt in Eleven Months Than All Last Year

To cope with a growing toll from traffic accidents, Chief of Police Thomas Healey to-day was studying a three-fold plan of action, as follows:

1. Recommendation to the Board of Police Commissioners that the City Council be asked to pass a by-law prohibiting jaywalking.
2. Installation of floodlights at dangerous intersections on the fringes of the business section, through which main traffic arteries pass.
3. Insurrection of a safety campaign which would include addresses to public bodies stressing the need for observation of traffic laws.

A careful perusal of the figures on accidents has been made by the chief and Inspector John T. Boulton. The figures reveal that the accident toll for the first eleven months of this year is higher than that for the full twelve months of last year. Although fatalities have not been unusually numerous, with only five recorded to date, the number of injured has already passed the 100 mark.

Civil observers were predicting to-day a vote of about 5,000. Although there are 11,351 persons entitled to cast ballots, the lack of a majority contest is expected to cut down the total vote from that of recent years.

BOLIVIA CALLS LADS TO ARMS

Boys of Sixteen Serving in War With Paraguay in Chaco Region

Buenos Aires, Dec. 13.—Bolivian lads sixteen years old prepared to take front line fighting positions to-day as the government, hard-pressed by Paraguayan victories in the jungles of the Chaco Boreal, called up new reserves. A dispatch from La Paz said the War Ministry announced that Colonel Enrique Penaranda with 3,000 men had broken through Paraguayan lines and joined the main Bolivian forces, evading capture.

This information was at variance, however, with a communique from Asuncion which said the Paraguayans had surrounded and captured 600 prisoners including nineteen officers, commanded by Penaranda.

Fish Boat Explodes But Crew Escapes

Craft Which Shot Up Flames Off California Yesterday Evening, Causing Anxiety, Turns Out to Be Japanese Fishing Boat; Four Men Got Away in Tender

Monterey, Cal., Dec. 13.—A vessel which caught fire and sank off Point Pinos, near here, yesterday evening was identified to-day as the Japanese fishing boat Utah.

The ship's crew of four, headed by Captain Y. Tanuma, abandoned the vessel shortly after the fire had broken out and reached shore in a motor tender. The men were not injured.

Tanuma said a backfire from the vessel's engine started the blaze. The Utah was forty-eight feet long. Tanuma estimated the loss at $7,500.

DOUKHOBORS GET RELEASE

Fourteen Have Been Freed From Pier Island Penitentiary

Family Reunions Follow Early Endings to Three-year Terms

Fourteen of the 391 Doukhobors, consisting of 303 men and 288 women, originally sentenced to a three-year term in the Pier Island Penitentiary, have been released and the policy of gradually granting paroles is being continued. It was learned from the Attorney-General's Department this morning.

Several months ago a policy of freeing those whose conduct record in the penitentiary warranted it was adopted and recommendations have been made to Ottawa regarding the prisoners to be given consideration. The B.C. Attorney-General's Department was consulted before the prison gates were thrown open to Doukhobors listed to return to their homes.

While the conduct record is the main factor, the releases have in most instances been fairly re-unions. Husbands and wives have been released, and usually they had children who had been placed in homes. An undertaking to obey the laws of Canada is demanded before releases are given, and these pledges have been adhered to.

"We look to the children to act as missionaries," officials of the Attorney-General's Department commented. "The influence of the homes in which they have lived while their parents have been incarcerated has had a good effect on the children. The children torn from their familiar surroundings into surroundings that were quite different to those they were accustomed to they were strange at first and inclined to be a little sulky. They soon, however, proved adaptable. They cultivated the habits of cleanliness and tidiness, ate meat and became cheerful and bright. These habits should have a good effect on the parents when they are re-united."

Fishermen Lose In Nova Scotia Storm

Halifax, Dec. 13.—The troubled Atlantic was pounding Nova Scotia's southwestern shore to-day, whipped to fury by the second gale to strike the coast in three days.

Damage to fishermen's gear was reported heavy along the coastline as the aftermath of the storm that swept down yesterday morning. Lobstermen declared their pots were being torn from their settings and cast ashore by the scores.

A dozen or more vessels of the Atlantic fishing fleet were tied up along the shore.

LOCAL UNIT WINS HONORS

Governor-General's Trophy Won By 55th Battery of Fifth Brigade

For the eighth time in nine consecutive years premier artillery honors in Canada have been captured by the 55th Battery of the Fifth B.C. Coast Brigade. It was announced in a night wire received to-day by Lieut.-Col. T. B. Monk, commanding.

The unit was awarded the Governor-General's Cup for general efficiency. The battery also won first honors in the test for the efficiency of personnel, gaining the Gwethin Challenge Trophy, and added to its laurels the General Dodd's Trophy, emblematic of first place in signalling as well as taking second honors in the gun practice to gain the Black Bull Challenge Cup.

The signalling trophy won this year for the first time by the battery, ranks the unit first in all artillery signalling corps in Canada.

The victorious battery is under the command of Major C. S. Gosselson. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 7.)

POST OFFICE IN DETROIT ROBBED

Fifty-eight Pieces of Registered Mail and Stamps Worth Thousands Taken By Thieves

Associated Press
Detroit, Dec. 13.—Drilling a hole through eighteen inches of brick and mortar, thieves yesterday evening stole registered mail of undetermined value and $19,000 in postage stamps from the Alfred Street branch post office here.

Police who investigated the robbery said they could find no evidence of forcible entrance to the building and assumed one of the robbers was concealed in the building when it was closed for the night. The theft was discovered by a clerk early to-day.

The loot, post office authorities said, included fifty-eight pieces of registered mail. Jack B. Stackpool, superintendent of mails, said the value of the registered mail was estimated at $19,000. He did not believe the loss would reach half that amount, however.

Post office authorities said the branch office had been "cleaned out." The exact amount of the loss in the mail cannot be estimated until the senders of registered letters are heard from.

The Alfred Street post office is one of the principal branches in the near downtown district. Estimates of the loot were based largely on guesswork, postal authorities said.

"GIVE A JOB"

For many years it has been the policy of the Employment Service of Canada to appeal to the citizens of Victoria to create all the extra work possible at this time of year in order that those in need of work may be able to earn something for Christmas and thereby be in the position to purchase those small extra necessities for themselves and family so closely connected with the Christmas season. The Employment Service asks all citizens to look around and see if they cannot find some job to be done and may be able to earn something for Christmas.

SEARCH PARTY FINDS HUNTER

Harry Walker, Missing Since Sunday, Is Found Near Crystal Lake

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, Dec. 13.—After living without food for two days, and sleeping in deserted cabins, Harry Walker, Five Acres hunter, has been found alive by William Calverley, a member of the search party of fifty which has been seeking him since his disappearance on Sunday.

Walker was not in the best of condition when found, suffering from hunger and exposure. Calverley found him on a trail near Crystal Lake, ten miles from Nanaimo.

The searchers had been hampered in their quest by the number of cabins in the district which are not all known to the police, and in which the missing man had slept.

SUB-ZERO MARKS ON THE PRAIRIES

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Dec. 13.—Winter's frosty clutch was still clamped down on the prairies to-day, but the weather man, while he produced an array of sub-zero figures for virtually all plains points, promised the frigid spell would be tempered somewhat by Thursday.

The Pas, Man., registered a reading of twenty-six below, but could not outdo White River, Ont., north of Lake Superior, where it was likewise twenty-six below. Occasional snow was on the ground for the next twenty-four hours, but for Saskatchewan and Alberta the forecast was "not so cold."

Regina and Brandon, with fourteen below, Moose Jaw with eighteen below, Winnipeg with a minus twelve reading and Calgary, where the minimum was minus ten, were cold spots on a generally icy weather map.

Chilliwack, Abbotsford and Sumas Have Been Without Power Since Lines Broke Under Wet Snow Late Monday

Big Sumas Area Pumps Stand Idle

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Dec. 13.—Fifty families had been driven by floods from their homes on reclaimed land in the Fraser Valley to-day, as hundreds of workmen battled recurrent blizzards in their efforts to restore power lines supplying current for pumps protecting the low-lying river areas.

Chilliwack, Abbotsford and Sumas have been without power since lines collapsed under wet, clinging snow Monday. Seven hundred men employed on repair work restored many miles of broken high tension lines yesterday, but their efforts were nullified overnight as more miles of wire collapsed during another blizzard.

PUMP IS IDLE
Water flooding Sumas Prairie was estimated at three feet in depth to-day and it was expected the water would continue to rise until the pumping plant on the Vedder River is put into action. The plant depends on power supplied over the broken lines.

Farmers of Sumas Prairie removed all their livestock to safety on higher ground and, with their homes surrounded by water, moved their families from the district.

Interurban trains for Chilliwack are unable to operate owing to ice coating the rails. Communication with the district is cut off.

Arm Around Lady Is Common Danger

Cannot Encourage Practice of One-hand Driving, Says Magistrate, Imposing Minimum Fine

"I noticed the car proceeding rather uncertainly along the road and when it came beside me I saw the young man driving with his right arm around a young lady, who had her head on his shoulder," explained Sergeant Arthur Bishop in the City Police Court this morning, testifying in a case of driving to the common danger.

"The visibility was poor," the constable added.

"What for the young lady?" queried Magistrate George Jay.

"No, no, for the driver," replied the officer, afraid that is a habit which can't be encouraged, said the magistrate to the defendant, "I mean, this driving with one hand. You are liable to a minimum penalty of $10, which I will impose."

SOUTH AFRICA PARTY UNION

Congress at Bloemfontein Rounds Out Fusion; Government Is Coalition

Canadian Press
Bloemfontein, South Africa, Dec. 13.—With action by the Orange Free State section of the South African party yesterday all provincial sections of the South African Party have approved formal fusion with the Nationalist Party, sponsoring union of the two dominant parties in South African politics.

Three of the four sections of the Nationalist Party have likewise approved union, which has been in effect for some months. The two joined forces for the general election of last May and jointly secured an overwhelming parliamentary majority. In the fusion cabinet of Premier J. B. Hertzog, Nationalist Party head, the South African party leader, General Jan Smuts, is the Premier's right-hand man.

The Bloemfontein congress yesterday unanimously adopted the resolution recommending immediate constitution of a programme and principles for the new United party.

The Union movement has been hailed by the joint leaders, Premier Hertzog and General Smuts, as marking the end of twenty-five years of strife between the dominant races of South Africa, Dutch and English-speaking.

Virtually the only opposition towards the united parties comes from a minority of the Nationalists led by Hon. D. F. Malan, former Nationalist Cabinet Minister.

LIQUOR QUOTA SCHEME CLOSED
No More Emergency Permits For Other Countries to Ship to United States

Washington, Dec. 13.—The United States has ended the issuance of emergency liquor permits to-day at the same time that the nation's lawmakers were shaping legislation to encourage a bootleg-proof domestic industry.

Joseph H. Choate, director of the federal alcohol control administration and one of the members of a special committee given the job of allocating liquor import quotas, announced that "the issuance of permits under the original quotas must be considered closed."

The quotas for foreign countries, the amounts of which had not been made public more than a week after they became effective, covered importations for a four-month period, and were designed to build up a supply in the country pending full-fledged operation of the United States industry.

A hearing before the Senate finance committee and the House ways and means committee on liquor tax legislation brought testimony from governmental and the industrial experts that the levy must be low enough to allow a retail price for legal liquor cheap enough to wreck the bootleg market.

MAYBE $2 A GALLON
A federal tax of $1.50 to $2 a gallon was recommended by Dr. J. M. Doran, representative of the distilling industry code authority, at a committee session yesterday.

The opinion that a $2.50 a gallon liquor tax would permit the retail sale of whisky for $1.50 a quart was expressed to the joint congressional committee by Edward G. Lowry Jr., chairman of President Roosevelt's inter-departmental committee, which recommends a tax at that figure. Lowry said the committee believed this could be done provided states did not levy additional volume taxes.

The above picture of Factor was taken as he was declaring emphatically he would tell the story of his abduction and torture on the witness stand.

CHALLENGE FOR TARIFF BOARD

But Chairman Disregards Objections of National Revenue Department

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Dec. 13.—The constitutional powers of the Tariff Board were challenged yesterday by the Department of National Revenue, when it was claimed the board had no right to review or reverse actions of the minister. The board, it was submitted, had more theoretical than actual powers, and must confine itself to the future and not make retrospective judgments.

The submissions were made by P. P. Varcoe, a solicitor for the Department of National Revenue, when an application was being heard for removal of dumping duties on United States and United Kingdom tin-plate on the ground there was no Canadian manufacturer operating.

The constitutional submissions of the department were brushed aside by Chairman George Sedgewick with the statement he could not subscribe to them.

Whether the Canadian Steel Corporation's plant at Ojibway, Ont., was being operated as a dumping ground for United States and United Kingdom tin-plate, was the basis of the appeal.

The Department of National Revenue argued this phrase would mean "capable of being produced in Canada." The Ojibway plant, it was argued, was not dismantled and could be set in motion again in a few days. Hence, tinplate was "capable of being produced in Canada" and dumping duties were valid.

ORDERS FROM U.S.
It was hinted by Mr. Varcoe that the Ojibway plant was closed down on orders from its parent company, the United States Steel Corporation, to permit the latter company to gain the Canadian market through removal of dumping duties.

The board reserved judgment on the appeal.

DUTY ON SAWDUST
K. V. McKinnick, representing the Toronto Fruit Association, asked the duty be listed on the weight of grapes and not to include the package sawdust. On a recent shipment a fifty-pound keg of grapes contained twenty-nine pounds of grapes, the sawdust weighing fifteen pounds and the balance being the keg itself. The duty, however, was computed on the total weight of the keg.

Vancouver, Dec. 13.—Prominent in Japanese community affairs for many years, Masakichi Oye, fifty, grocery merchant at Steveston for thirty-six years, died in the Vancouver General Hospital yesterday following a two days' illness.

He is survived by a widow, three sons and five daughters.

Olive Branch At Arbitration

Board Members Urge Agreement at B.C.E.R.—Employee Hearing

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Dec. 13.—The olive branch of reasonable agreement was waved in the faces of the B.C. Electric street car employees and their employers yesterday by members of the conciliation board now trying to settle the wage disagreement.

As the men finished their case with presentation of a number of new working conditions demands the chairman, Judge J. N. Ellis, reminded the parties that the "olive leaf" is still floating around. A. G. McCandless, a member of the board, voiced hope the men and the company might at least agree on working condition demands before the sittings would be resumed next Monday at 10 a.m.

HOLIDAY DISCUSSION
Demand for an annual two-week holiday with pay was part of what motormen and conductors asked yesterday. Mr. Murrin said that concession was made by no street railway company in Canada and by only a few of the 1,000 companies operating in the United States.

Mr. Speed asked Remembrance Day be included in the list of holidays recognized by the company. He asked the men have one day off during six rather than one day in eight, as formerly. He asked some changes in reporting of time allowance and that bus drivers be dealt along with other operators and paid as operators of one-man street cars. He argued the company should pay the special driving license fee demanded by the government from operators of busses.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

Springer, N.M., Dec. 13.—Four persons were burned to death and four others were injured or burned when two trucks collided head-on near here yesterday evening and caught fire.

Witnesses said the two trucks, both heavily loaded, struck on a curve and hill, nine miles north of here. One of the machines caught fire and set the other alight.

One of the drivers was thrown clear of the wreckage and although seriously injured he staggered to the aid of the children, who had been on the other truck and whose screams could be heard above the roar of the burning gasoline from the two trucks.

The driver rescued a boy and two girls before he collapsed, and was taken to a hospital.

Several other witnesses were unable to rescue the other victims because of the intense heat.

NO SETTLEMENT GRANTS
London, Dec. 13.—"I would not advocate sending people there unless they were able to get jobs," said Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominions, in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, answering a question about emigration to Canada. The minister said no measure had been taken, and no money grants made, by the British Government for establishment of community settlements on farms in eastern Canada.

Newfoundland Bill Is Voted

British Commons Gives Second Reading to Measure For Commission For Island

Canadian Press
London, Dec. 13.—Against Labor opposition the House of Commons yesterday evening, by a vote of 250 to 42, gave second reading to the Newfoundland Bill, which implements recommendations of the Newfoundland Royal Commission.

The vote ended a brisk debate in which the bill was upheld by Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, and attacked by Labor members as merely providing protection for "money-lenders" at the expense of the British taxpayers.

The Labor amendment, defeated before second reading was given, would have rejected the proposal to govern Newfoundland by a commission responsible to the British Government, with the latter assuming responsibility until Newfoundland's finances are restored.

The commission's report, said Mr. Thomas, when Sir Alfred Knox declared "corrupt politicians" should be responsible to the British Government, was not the present government of Newfoundland that was at fault.

Geoffrey Mander, Liberal, referring to a suggestion that Newfoundland should be represented in the British Parliament during the period of the commission, declared the Newfoundlanders should rather be in the Canadian Parliament. "That is her right and ultimate destination," he added. "We should make it clear the United Kingdom, when Newfoundland is re-established, will use all her good offices to bring Newfoundland and Canada together."

FARM MORALE IS IMPROVING

Leaders in U.S. Agricultural World See Danger of Further Strikes Fading Out

Associated Press
Chicago, Dec. 13.—A general decline in the feeling of farm unrest in the United States and an increase in optimism as to the future was reflected to-day in a survey of opinions of conservative farm leaders. Chief figures of the strike movement which a few weeks ago focused attention on the farm situation, however, refused to concede the agricultural corner had been turned.

Charles F. Hearst of Cedar Falls, Iowa, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau, declared the element backing the recent strike in his state was not representative. He noted a decided improvement in morale.

In Wisconsin, said Charles L. Hill, chairman of the state department of agriculture and markets, the farm situation was much improved.

Walter M. Singler, who as president of the Wisconsin Co-operative Milk Pool, led the recent milk strike in Wisconsin, declared he did not expect another strike for a long time, if ever. His organization, he said, was concentrating on organizing producer-consumer milk co-operatives.

U.S. PRESIDENT SCORES LYNCHERS

Above is one of the latest pictures of President Roosevelt. "We do not excuse those in high places or low who condone lynch law," he said, addressing the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America at Washington a few days ago, denouncing mob violence in his first statement on the subject.

Since the recent lynchings, this was seen as a rebuke to Governor Ralph of California, who had said that if any persons in the mob which lynched two men at San Jose were convicted, he would pardon them.

U.S. LIQUOR ORDERS NO BELGIAN DEBT PAYMENT TO U.S.

Washington, Dec. 13 (Associated Press)—United States citizens may order liquor from Canadian and other foreign distillers for their personal consumption, but they must pay both the tariff and internal revenue taxes. Customs officials say residents placing such orders for their own use need not have import permits. The tariff is $5 a gallon and the internal revenue tax is $1.10.

Brussels, Dec. 13.—The Belgian cabinet yesterday decided to maintain its previous attitude concerning its war debt to the United States—that of default. It made no provision for the payment falling due December 15.

TO-MORROW'S ELECTIONS

No doubt the electors of Victoria have made up their minds how they are going to vote at the municipal elections to-morrow. The contest has been deprived of a good deal of its general interest since there is no competition for the mayor's chair, but nevertheless it is to be hoped there will be a large turn-out of voters.

Next year will be important for Victoria in civic administration, and it is highly desirable that the best candidates be chosen for various offices which have to be filled. The new council will be presented with the hardy annual in the form of a demand for reduction in taxation and all the economies which can be effected without impairment of the public services. This year's council has acquitted itself well in the face of the most trying conditions and with seriously diminished assistance from the province. Its record will show up favorably against that of any other city of similar size in the Dominion.

It is too early, of course, to attempt to predict what the new government across James Bay will be able to do to ameliorate the financial difficulties with which this and other municipalities are faced. It has pledged itself to a "new deal" in the relations between the province and the municipalities, and there is every reason to believe that it will make good that promise to the utmost extent of the resources at its disposal. It is not necessary to enlarge on its own peculiar problems; but it is reassuring to know that it recognizes that the municipalities simply can not do all they are being called upon to do at present with their restricted sources of revenue, and that it is just as important to protect the solvency of the municipalities as it is to safeguard provincial credit. With the prospect of these changes, therefore, it is essential that the new council shall be as efficient as the present one, five of whom remain for another year without election. The other half must be elected to-morrow.

A similarly difficult situation will confront the School Board, whose responsibilities grow from year to year with the increase of our school population. Victoria has been invariably fortunate in the high standard of its school administration, for which the electors who choose the personnel are entitled to compliment themselves. Likewise, it owes something to the citizens, who without emolument have given so much of their time, energy and ability to the school trusteeship of the community. Four vacancies must be filled to-morrow, and this is another cogent reason why the voters should turn out in large numbers.

GOLD PRODUCTION

The output of gold in Canada during August, 1933, amounted to 256,561 ounces as compared with 255,656 ounces during July, 1933, and 264,769 ounces during August, 1932. Of the total output, 183,796 ounces were produced in Ontario, 33,858 in Quebec, 22,501 in British Columbia and 10,573 in Manitoba. During the first eight months ending August, 1933, the total output of Canadian gold amounted to 1,970,140 ounces as compared with 2,016,370 ounces during the same period in 1932. Details follow:

Months	1933	1932
January	233,456	233,889
February	228,224	226,395
March	260,154	256,796
April	237,017	244,728
May	237,661	228,770
June	261,411	270,682
July	255,656	250,371
August	256,561	264,769
September	268,739
October	354,654
November	247,445
December	262,178
Total—Calendar Year..	3,044,387
Total—Eight Months..	1,970,140	2,016,370

The production of gold in Canada during the first eight months of the present year, although somewhat smaller than during the same period a year ago, was substantially larger than in previous years.

GO AFTER BUSINESS

Mr. Harold Brown, speaking to the Junior Chamber of Civic Affairs in Vancouver on Monday last, declared that a tremendous development is due on the Pacific and warns us that our share of it will be in proportion to our industry and initiative. Leadership at present is with the Japanese and he thinks we ought to "forget our conceit and the belief that we are a superior race."

In China and Japan alone there are approximately 570,000,000 people and that immense field for business ought to be much more intensely exploited by Canada than seems to be the case at present. Our import and export business with China in the twelve months ending last October amounted in value to only $9,300,000, or approximately $800,000 less than in the previous year. With Japan it amounted to $15,300,000, or a reduction from the previous twelve months of $2,400,000. Here we have a combined import and export trade with 570,000,000 people amounting to only $24,600,000.

While it will not be seriously argued that government agents can go out and sell goods in foreign countries, the fact remains that Canada maintains only two Trade Commissioners in the Orient—one at Shanghai and the other at Tokyo—and yet a suggestion was made some time ago by a political writer close to the government at Ottawa that one way the Dominion might save money would be to eliminate this branch of the public service. If ever there was a time when this country ought to be prominent on the trade map that time is now. A hundred Trade Commissioners in the Orient, of course, would not be very valuable unless the missionary work they are able to perform were followed up by active representatives of our exporting firms.

The unfortunate feature in Canada's present exchange of commodities with the rest of the world—the year ending last October showed it was worth only $897,600,000, about what it was twenty years ago—is that our shrinkage of imports in the last three years has naturally been accompanied by a similar shrinkage of exports. We are told by the high protectionist press that the introduction of the present tariff policy in 1930 "prevented industries from going under" and has since produced a favorable balance of trade. The only answer to this is that there were about 170,000 idle Canadian workers at this time three years ago and about 700,000 to-day, that our trade to-day is just about one-third of what it was in December, 1930. We have trade restriction instead of trade expansion.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

It is one thing to give a government a name and keep it in office by the same name when outside developments indicate a change of public opinion. The recent by-elections in Great Britain lend point to the following comments of The Christian Science Monitor:

"The British National government still completely controls the situation, and has an ample majority to support it. But how long can it count on its present strength? What will happen at the next election, when powerful Conservative elements will certainly press for an all-Conservative, as opposed to a National, government, and when Socialism may come back with renewed vigor and large numbers? The heads of the government are acting in close harmony to-day—the Labor MacDonald, the Conservative Baldwin and Neville Chamberlain, the Liberal Simon and Runciman. Are they to be separated at the next election by the ambitions of party wire-pullers, or will they go to the country again as members of a National administration?"

THE FIRST NARROWS BRIDGE

To-day in Vancouver the public is giving its decision on a proposal to build a bridge across the First Narrows. A lively campaign has been conducted by both sides. The project calls for an expenditure of $6,000,000 by Old Country interests and its advocates are telling the taxpayers that it will not cost them a cent. The critics say that although this is Christmas, they can not conceive of Santa Claus putting a six-million-dollar bridge in any city's stocking. The Vancouver Sun is all for the bridge. The Vancouver Province can not see the force of its contemporary's arguments. So the matter is being settled in the polling-booths to-day.

The contention in favor of the bridge is that it is "something more than a bridge—it's new money for Vancouver payrolls," and that it would carry with it the assurance for the future prosperity of all interests surrounding Burrard Inlet. It is argued that this is not a question of taking sides because "the future greatness of Vancouver as regards population, industry and shipping must forever depend on the volume of water-borne traffic in and out of the harbor." The final appeal reminds the voters that the expenditure of this British capital would mean a two-year job for a few hundreds of Vancouver workmen.

As set out by The Vancouver Province, the chief argument against the project is that there is no immediate need for the bridge, and that the Second Narrows structure, now under reconstruction, will serve the pressing needs of the North Shore for many years to come. Exception also is taken to certain engineering features of the undertaking, about which, however, there seems to be an honest difference of opinion. The agreement upon which a decision is being recorded apparently stipulates, in effect, that Greater Vancouver is to be tied up for half a century to the payment of a scale of tolls set forth in the bridge company's charter, while there is no provision for sharing revenues with the city. The Province fails to find any provision for the extinction of tolls when a reasonable return has been made on the outlay, or proper provision for the taxation of the company's investment. But the newspaper tells its readers that if it shall be decided that a bridge is wanted, a better bridge and a better bargain should be got.

This project, however, is Vancouver's business, but nevertheless, Victoria, which once owned most of the terminal city, is bound to be unusually interested in the outcome of to-day's voting.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

RUSSIA AND PEACE
The Barmia Canadian-Observer

Russia has made vigorous protestation of her desire for peace in order to work out her economic salvation. If she is sincere in that regard she is now in a position to create a profound impression upon the disturbed mentality of Europe. In good standing with a powerful nation like the United States, she can go a long way toward demanding that her neighbors on the west abandon their belligerent attitude and join in a crusade for permanent peace. In that way she can make a tremendous contribution to the cause of human progress. The world is in a soft mood of which a powerful record in the cause of commendable international conduct.

WHEAT ACREAGE AND PRICES
The Washington Post

It is logical to suppose that many farmers who refuse to co-operate with the A.A.A. will increase their acreage in the expectation that wheat prices will rise. A substantial increase in price might induce large areas that are now growing wheat into competition with the producers of the Middle West who have agreed to curtail their output. This has been the experience in virtually every case where efforts have been made to raise prices by reducing the supply of commodities which can be produced in abundance over wide areas. The obvious inclination of some groups to take advantage of the government and the desire of all farmers to improve their own situation create a formidable problem for the A.A.A.

A THOUGHT

O ye sons of men, how long will ye turn my glory into shame, how long will ye love vanity, and seek after leasing? Selah—Psalms IV 2.

Loose Ends

We are found to be ignorant in one of the essential arts of life—Mr. Bennett is a little too hopeful about Canadian civilization—Mr. Smith shows his broken heart—And we're not so bad beneath the surface.

By H. B. W.

IGNORANCE

A THOUGHTFUL fellow has written to The New York Times to deplore the liquor habits of the United States; not of course, that the United States drinks too much but that it doesn't drink enough, or rather that it doesn't know how to drink at all. His observations seem to apply equally to our own country.

"We do not know how to drink," he says, this man who has evidently drunk his way all over the best drinking territory of Europe in his time. "Every beverage is tossed off. The bouquet of an old brandy is never enjoyed here as in Italy or France. The way we drink brandy, it might just as well be alcohol and water. We Americans should be taught how to drink, what to drink and how to cool or ice the drink. We have much to learn on the subject of eating and drinking."

This is a grave indictment and no doubt quite correct. We have a lot to learn about eating and drinking. The curious part of it is that while United States and even this little country can afford untold millions a year for drinking, yet millions of their inhabitants can't afford to eat enough. In the United States a survey this fall showed that 6,000,000 school children were under-nourished and their health permanently damaged from lack of good food.

Obviously, we don't understand eating. But it is rather a pity to discover that we don't understand drinking either. As usual, civilization has kept ahead of the ability to control it and the Americans find themselves now with unlimited liquor without the equipment to use it properly.

Evidently it is too late to do anything about the adult drinker, whose evil habits are too firmly fixed to be altered. We must start with the young and educate them in the higher arts of drinking. We must get at the school child while he is in his formative years and teach him to appreciate the bouquet of brandy and how to put his foot on the brass rail. Otherwise, perceiving the unwholesome drinking habits of his elders and betters—and certainly they are pretty crude in these days of hotel bedroom gazing—the child may go wrong and become an incurable teetotaler at a tender age. Unless you get them young, it is almost impossible to make them go straight.

HAVE WE?

PREMIER BENNETT, in a fine spasm of eloquence the other day, declared that Canadian civilization was a distinct thing, a civilization of its own, a positive cultural entity separate from the civilizations of other places. This is very satisfactory and inspiring. But is it true?

The sound Canadian rather will regret that Canadian civilization is not distinct and not separate from the civilizations of other countries. That, as every true Canadian recognizes, is the great trouble with the country. The only recognizable Canadian civilization is in Quebec, and it doesn't suit the country at large.

The rest of the country, up to now, has drawn its civilization mostly from the British Isles and the United States. Its population scattered and remote; its whole boundary exposed to a country of similar tongue and a vast machinery for the spread of ideas, Canada is probably less distinct in its civilization than any nation in the world. A great many Canadians, indeed, have an idea that it is unpatriotic to aspire to a separate civilization; a kind of disloyalty to our noble ancestors, rather un-British.

As a result, in all the evidence of civilization, in literature, in the arts, in ideas we have plenty of genius, but it is not peculiarly Canadian. It has not developed through any particular surge of Canadianism, but on its own. We can make a separate civilization. We must make a civilization of our own if we are to survive. Maybe we shall some day. But Mr. Bennett is premature.

SAD SPECTACLE

THE BREAK between the two chief Democrats of the United States, President Roosevelt and Mr. Al Smith, is now complete. Dispatches from Washington say that the life-long friendship between these two men has finally been extinguished by Mr. Smith's recent attack on the President's policies.

Here is a personal drama, the lesson of which may be applied to many places besides Washington, D.C. Dr. Smith was all for Roosevelt so long as Roosevelt was his nominee for governor of New York. He was all for Roosevelt when Roosevelt nominated him twice for the presidency. But after Smith was beaten and Roosevelt became a presidential possibility, Smith concentrated with vigor on the job of saving the nation from the menace of his old friend. He even went into the Democratic convention in Chicago to stop Roosevelt, and was deservedly rejected in humiliation.

Now that Roosevelt is president and Smith is a leading millionaire of New York (who boasts that he never reads a book but gets all his information from friends, which seems entirely probable) Smith is out to spike the president on account of his currency policies.

Thus you see how even a great mind like Al Smith's is warped by personal envy and his heart eaten up with disappointment until he loses all sense of perspective, until he fails to realize that the public can forgive a man for being beaten but never for being a poor sport. And no matter how sound a man's views on currency and such things may be, the public always distrusts him if it knows that he is, after all, a disappointed suitor. If a man goes into party politics he is expected to play the game with the team. If he doesn't want to, he had better stay out. When a man is for the team right up to the point where he is not elected captain, and then finds that the team has always been wrong, that he has always disagreed with it on matters of high principle, then you know how to judge such a man.

There are plenty of lesser Smiths in the politics of other places, not so far from here. The public, whose ignorance of politics is colossal, but whose understanding of sportsmanship is usually sound, knows how to judge these things pretty well.

RUGGED EXTERIOR

UNDER the rugged exterior of this age often beats a warm and child-like heart, carefully hidden from the world. To-day, for instance, I read a charming book of child's verse, written in that style which makes you want to rush out and pick daisies and gambol on the green, or else to shed a tear on your pinafore. Who do you suppose wrote it?

Not a sentimental spinster or callow youth, but none other than Professor Coleman of the University of British Columbia, whose job is to lecture on the obscure points of Shakespeare and explain "Paradise Lost" to the adolescent mind about to go into the world. As another instance, I know a hard-boiled business man of Victoria who at Christmas will dress up in a Santa Claus outfit, replete with whiskers, as he has for years, and go from house to house distributing hampers to families whose names he has obtained from friends. They will never know who he is. The long white beard will enable him to maintain the anonymity which he has cherished for many Christmas seasons.

There is another fellow who knits woolen mufflers for settlers' children in the Peace River country, another who keeps horned toads in a warm box of sand in his living room, or did until they died and broke his heart, and still another who spends his evenings building elaborate toy boats for neighbors' kids.

The world is full of such nameless, unknown fellows who growl and elbow through life all day but are only little children after they have retired from the world in the evening. If we could only get them together and into the open, if we could only be in the age what we really are, you might find that human nature wasn't so bad after all, nor civilization quite so hopeless.

Of course, in a proper civilization professors who could do it, would be allowed to devote all their time to writing rhymes for children, a work infinitely more important than instructing adolescents in the obscure passages of Shakespeare, which Shakespeare never understood himself. Others who had a flair for it would always be Santa Clauses all the year. Horned toad enthusiasts would be allowed to spend their lives in the perfection of horned toad culture. Toy boat builders would work for the joy of the working and never grow tired at all.

That men with such talents as these should have to squander them on the mere earthly business of earning a living is a pitiful waste of nature's gifts. It is likewise a gross affront to nature that I should have to write a column instead of being out yonder, saving up dead oak limbs and helping the little boy next-door with his worm collection. I shall proceed now to remove the affront.

THE RHYMING
OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

TO A FRIEND

Whatever praise may come is incomplete
Without your prized approval to perfect it,
And every fruit of toil, that it is true,
Lacks something of its zest if you neglect it.
How strange a thing the heart is, that it
Uses

One voice alone, and although many voices
A sudden-throated left a instant crying,
Their words, nor in their kindness rejoice!

Oh, friend, have you in lonely meadow heard
A hidden-throated left a instant crying,
Until, who knows by what strange urges
There comes at last, a lyric note replying?
Sings blended with song, and yet unsatisfied
The heart had been while one song was denied.

To the Editor:—May I mention by favor of The Times that my standing as a candidate for the aldermanic board is entirely independent of any association or organization. I read in this way I shall, if elected, be able to exercise a free and unbiased judgment in all matters affecting the citizens as a whole.

I strongly feel the City Council should keep in view, and its individual members should not allow any pressure to be brought upon them from any quarter to influence them against their paramount duty to the welfare of the property owners, who are the biggest contributors to the city exchequer.

A MATTER OF FID

To the Editor:—There are eight men walking the streets of this city without any means of subsistence. These men have been discharged from the Macaulay Point relief camp for making a protest against the dismissal of a fellow-worker on the pretext of having taken a piece of pie from the dinner table. These men have approached the relief authorities with a view to obtaining further relief, but so far have only succeeded in being passed from one authority to another without any apparent result. Is this not a blot on our fair city at Yuletide, I ask you? Cannot something be done for them?

GEORGE SEYMOUR

P.S.—The dismissed lad was only seventeen years old and therefore naturally has a desire for plenty of pie.
Victoria, Dec. 12.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION

To the Editor:—Now that we are in the midst of a municipal election, it is to be hoped that the character and ability of the candidates will be carefully studied. There is one man amongst the number who ran very well in the last election, and to my mind would make a very valuable

BUYERS WANT QUALITY NOW

Less Demand For Frivolous
Christmas Goods, Say
Merchants

"The slump has made buyers more sensible," is the substance of what the wholesalers and retailers have to say about Christmas marketing. The buyers now carefully examine what they are getting and are more particular in their selections.

Wholesalers, who are now completing their Christmas stocks, report that prices are almost the same as last year and in the provision branches of the trade the few differences are almost fractional.

The only exception to this rule is that the Japanese oranges, which have been arriving on the island in considerable quantities during the last month, are selling at a remarkably low figure. Turkeys are almost the only other commodity to show any change. They are only up about a cent and a half per pound.

Last year, and there is every indication that the same will apply this season, the average size of turkey demand by customers was smaller than previously, but they were more particular about quality. Turkey will undoubtedly be the popular fowl this season, for during the last two years they have been selling at remarkably low prices and this year will cost less even than chicken, and possibly only a cent per pound more than duck.

Except for their demand for quality, merchants believe that buyers will show much the same preferences as in previous years. Although the real Christmas buying has not yet started, rich commodities as peel and raisins point the way fairly, with general tendencies, for these are selling exactly as last year.

The same old favorites will be in the shop windows; ginger in its two forms, preserved and crystallized, raisins and almonds, walnuts, chestnuts, figs and dates are all finding their way to their old places. Candied peel, lemon, orange and citron are rubbing shoulders with stacks of candy for however sensibly the customers may be, their taste is still as sweet as ever, and there is no sign that candy and chocolates are to be any the less popular.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

"Experiences and Trials of a Newspaperman" was the subject of an address delivered before the Quod Club by Neil McKelvie of The Colonist, at the "Y" building, yesterday evening.

The success of the recent membership campaign was proved before the membership committee at their meeting Saturday evening by the fact that over 90 per cent of the members enrolled are already taking active part in the association.

At this meeting it was also announced that the "Y" intends to organize a special series of physical classes for business men late in January. These classes will be of an especially individualistic nature. With a view to popularizing them, a special membership guest week will be held during the month of January, in the course of which each registered member of the association will be permitted to invite one friend, who will be accorded the full privileges of membership, and permitted to take part in all the activities of the association.

A special combined meeting of the membership and physical committees has been called for Monday evening, December 18, immediately after the regular monthly board meeting, which began at 7.30 p.m.

The Boys' Department reports that four or five donated memberships in the preparatory group have yet to be allotted; these are among a series of memberships especially endowed by men who, while not themselves being able to take an active part in the Y.M.C.A., yet wish to help on the association.

The physical department's regular monthly committee meeting will be held to-morrow evening at 7 o'clock, with Dr. T. W. A. Gray in the chair, and the following in attendance: Byron I. Johnson, H. S. Hammill, Chris McRee, Norman Collins and Sam Hills.

The Y.M.C.A. public speaking class will hold its banquet and toast night on December 12, to-morrow evening, at 7.30 p.m. Toasts of every variety are billed for the evening.

The Speakers' Club, which is affiliated with the Toastmasters' International, will hold a similar but impromptu function this evening.

The Tuxis Boys' Parliament of British Columbia will meet in the Parliament Buildings from December 27 to 30 inclusive. About thirty-five members will be present from various parts of the province. Anyone who would care to billet the boys during their visit, are asked to communicate with V. Shoemaker of the Y.M.C.A.

Maurice Hindus Visits Russia Again and "Great Offensive" Is the Result

Henry VIII Pictured as Man Whose Passions Rule Him in Martin Hume's Book

Maurice Hindus, author of "Humanity Uprooted," gives further impressions of Russia in "Great Offensive," and "The Wives of Henry VIII and the Part They Played in History" by Martin Hume, in which some ideas regarding England's king are shattered, are the two outstanding non-fiction books received by the Victoria Public Library this week.

Maurice Hindus caused a sensation among the reading public with his "Red Bread" and "Humanity Uprooted," and this new book, "Great Offensive," is well on the way to do the same thing. It was written just after the author's last visit to Russia and brings his impressions of the great Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Martin Hume in his book on Henry VIII, England's most married king, plays down the view taken by so many historians that Henry was a far-seeing despot with his eye fixed upon the day of England's religious freedom but prefers rather to depict him as a man of passion, whose favor was curried by rival parties by making a plaything of his passions. In some respects the book is reminiscent of the motion picture "The Private Life of Henry VIII," by Vera Mary Britain.

Britain is an autobiographical study of the years 1900-1925. This intimate record of an English life from 1900 to 1925 shows what the war and the years immediately following meant to the men and women of her generation. Her first life ended with the death of her fiancé, her brother and the World War. The sorrows of these years she reveals and gives a full account of her experiences as a V.A.D. nurse. Britain was somewhat less fully of the period of recovery—the return to her interrupted course at Oxford, work for the League of Nations Union, association with a brilliant group of young writers, and her marriage in 1925, which concludes the book.

"Century of Progress," by Charles A. Beard, is a uniquely well-balanced compendium, free of overlapping, and distinguished by careful and able competence. The book represents a judicious mingling of the practical and the theoretical. It is also an indication of gaps in the American structure, of things to be done and problems to be solved. Partial contents are as follows: The idea of progress by Charles Beard, invention as a social manifestation by Waldemar Kaempfert, industry by Henry Ford and Samuel Crowther, transportation and communication by Edward Hopper, agriculture by F. O. Lowden, etc.

"A B C of War Debts," by Frank Simonds, explains simply and clearly how the war debts were made; how they were settled; and attempts to answer the following questions: "Were we ever willing to be paid?" "Did we ever get a cent?" "Can we trade them in?" "Did they deceive us?" "Cancellation or default?"

"Way of Escape," by Sir Philip Hamilton Gibbs, is in part a survey of the present economic and political situation and in part a warning and a programme of action. The remedies that are proposed are not novel, but they are nevertheless offered with confidence, "that the welfare of the world can be restored and increased by the use of mind and will power getting to grips with the admitted errors of recent history." Specifically, we must gradually reduce the debt and trade restrictions, liquidate some, perhaps half, of the national debts, notwithstanding the blow to savings and incomes from dividends, cut down armaments, raise the commodity price level or lower wages, stabilize money, restore confidence between nations, and secure for labor a larger share of the profits of industry.

"Carpenter's Tool Chest," by Thomas H. Hadden, is an account of the evolution of tools from the Stone Age to the nineteenth century. The first part of the book explains and illustrates all the tools in a modern carpenter's tool chest; the remaining two-thirds is devoted to the development of tools from the Stone Age through the Renaissance.

"King Edward VII," by E. F. Benson, is an appreciation. A clearer image of King Edward has not yet been made by anyone. Though the variety of the king's interests has not been neglected yet the over-tutored picture and the self-created ruler are the memories that remain with the reader. The useful part that educates, and certainly makes a court life is made intelligible. The interludes of history and politics, especially foreign politics, are admirably clear.

"We Move in New Directions," by Harry Allen Overstreet, is the outgrowth of a course of lectures delivered at the new school for social research in New York City in the fall of 1932. It is a study of the new social structure and of the new directions in which the world is moving and a challenge to all intelligent people to meet and understand these new conditions.

"Wives of Henry VIII and The Part They Played in History," by Martin Hume, is an engrossing book in which the author depicts this ideal. He regards Henry himself not as the far-seeing despot he is so often depicted, pressing forward through a lifetime with his eyes fixed upon the goal of England's religious freedom, but rather as a weak, vain, boastful man, the playing of his passions, which were artfully made use of by rival parties in the struggle of religious and political ends in the struggle of states that ended in the Reformation.

"Looking Back," by Norman Douglas, is an autobiographical excursion by the author of "South Wind." In this book Norman Douglas reviews his many-sided and fascinating career. He looks back over his life. And looking back means, for him, to remember and create again. One by one he singles out from his past a whole gallery of friends and enemies, loves and cronies and rivals, lawyers and scientists and fools and eccentric ladies. The author writes lightly and while he tells of the great and near great

BLOOD HOUNDS ARE SECURED

Animals Will Be Seen on the Stage For "Uncle Tom's Cabin"

Only unlimited patience on the part of the property manager and the ingenuity of the manager of scenic and lighting effects kept these two members of the Little Theatre from utter defeat. The property manager was asked by Director Lamb to produce a pair of blood hounds to pursue the fleeing Eliza across the ice. And the matter of how Eliza would cross the ice was the problem that was given to the latter.

Real live blood hounds will appear on the stage and will follow the scent to the proper manner. These dogs will have to have special care while they are being used by the Little Theatre Group, and one member has been detailed to look after them and see that they come to no harm or get into mischief.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is a play that will appeal to young and old alike, and for those who have seen it before, it will probably awaken many delightful memories and anecdotes. It will be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre Christmas night and the evening of Boxing Day.

HAMPER FUND GOES ON AIR

Special Broadcast This Evening Will Solicit Gifts of Food and Money

A special radio programme in aid of the Friendly Help Welfare Hamper Fund, sponsored by the city of Victoria, will be broadcast over CFCB this evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. The programme will be officially opened by Mayor Leeming with a short address in the course of which he will appeal to citizens of Victoria to help the fund in its object of providing Christmas cheer for needy families.

Half the programme will be provided by Christ Church Cathedral Choir, the other being made up of special requests from donors. Donations may be phoned in to the radio station, and will be acknowledged in the course of the programme. All money and food will be immediately turned over to the hamper fund headquarters at the Hibben-Bone Building, where a score of ladies are donating their time to the organization of the distribution and packing of the hampers.

The fund's final objective is 1,000 hampers, to be distributed to 2,000 families in all parts of the city before Christmas. If this intention is to be fulfilled citizens of Victoria, who are prepared to help brighten the season for others not as fortunate as themselves should not delay their gifts, remembering that the fund has less than two weeks in which to complete its work.

Donors, who are invited to deliver their donations direct to headquarters at the Hibben-Bone Building, are asked not to park their cars directly in front of the building, where the police have granted a non-parking zone to permit the free movement of trucks bringing food and taking away hampers.

MAYNARD BLOCK TRIAL CONTINUES

A. R. Wolfenden, manager of the B.C. Land and Investment Agency, was on the stand in the Supreme Court yesterday as chief defence witness in the trial before Mr. Justice Fisher of the action of James Maynard against executors of the Galpin estate of London, Eng., in which he charges that when he bought the three-story Maynard Block on Yates Street for $65,000, they sold him the building with only 40 ft. of rear wall, instead of the four walls he had a right to expect. The trial is now completing its fourth day.

Alfred Bull, K.C., defence counsel with C. J. Prior, declared there was no ground for alleging fraud or misrepresentation, as Mr. Maynard had entered the deal with his eyes open. He said the only chance for a case Mr. Maynard had was in the plea that there had been a mutual mistake. He said Mr. Maynard at the time knew the wall was not westerly wall, as the boundary of the property was twelve inches from the wall of the King Edward Hotel.

Mr. Wolfenden, under examination by Mr. Bull and C. H. O'Halloran, counsel for Mr. Maynard, went into the details leading up to the sale, and declared there had not been any attempt by Mr. Maynard to get away from his agreement.

Asked by Mr. O'Halloran why the King Edward Hotel had not built up to the edge of its property instead of leaving over twelve inches, Mr. Wolfenden explained that previously there had been a survey of the property and it had been the custom with these to lease a small space between buildings for a passageway to the rear.

The examination to-day was delayed by arguments between the lawyers over getting evidence into the second through the back door after it had previously been ruled inadmissible. Mr. O'Halloran asked whether it was not a fact that because of the uncertain status of surveys of down-town real estate in Victoria, building and loan companies had refused to loan money on such properties unless there was a certificate from a B.C. land surveyor that there was no encroachment. Mr. Wolfenden replied that such was true in some cases.

Copy of a petition which persons interested in down-town real estate had made to the City Hall a couple of years ago for an official survey to correct the situation, was tendered the court, but the judge, on Mr. Bull's objection, ruled that it could not be admitted as an exhibit.

The trial is continuing.

REAL SCOTTISH NIGHT ENJOYED

Burns Club Members Entertained By Excellent Programme at Meeting

A real Scotch night, with pipe band music, highland dancing and native songs was enjoyed by members of the Burns Club, who attended the regular meeting in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium yesterday evening.

The pipe band of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Scottish, particularly received a splendid ovation, while the solo numbers of Pipe Major Donald Cameron and Pipe Corporal Ian Duncan were given prolonged applause.

The trio leading the vocalists on the programme consisted of Major Walter Batty, Capt. J. S. Adam, and Sergeant Major Matheson, who offered several favorite Scottish airs. Miss Adeline Grant's pupils gave an excellent exhibition of Highland dancing.

The Scottish reel and Highland Fling, presented by Misses Jessie Porter, Owen Dewart, Lillian Grant and Evelyn Watson, both received tumultuous applause, and were encored several times. Pipe Major Cameron accompanied the dancers.

After solo selections by each member of the trio, the gathering closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne." George Reid acted as accompanist. W. B. Grant was chairman for the evening in the absence of John Hume, president, who was unable to attend owing to ill health. George C. Grant moved a vote of thanks to the artists contributing the excellent programme. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

DISAPPOINTED IN ESQUIMALT

C.C.F. Speaker Says Enthusiasm Was Shown But Crosses Not Marked

T. Guy Sheppard addressed a crowded meeting in St. Aidan's School at Langford Monday evening, on "Electing a Member."

In his opening remarks the speaker dealt with the C.C.F. vote locally in the election. He said he was much disappointed with the 500 votes in Esquimalt riding compared with the great wave of enthusiasm for the C.C.F. elsewhere. In Vancouver the C.C.F. polled 67,000 votes against 69,000 for the Liberals. In Victoria City, one of the most conservative cities in Canada, the result had delighted him. The C.C.F. had obtained a solid vote for straight Socialism, without camouflage and without dilution. They had gone to the electors of Victoria frankly and told them they were plain, straight Socialists. And the people of Victoria had responded in a way which had opened the eyes of all Canada. Over the last election he had only one regret. He would have liked to have seen the enthusiasm in Esquimalt for C.C.F. policies transferred to the polls in votes for the candidates. The enthusiasm was there but the crosses were not. He was very much puzzled, and very much disappointed, but in no way discouraged, he added.

HOME COSTS INCREASED

Finances of Protestant Orphanage Satisfactory, Annual Reports Indicate

Cost of operating the British Columbia Protestant Orphanage Home for the last twelve months was $150,27 more than in 1932 but generous assistance from various sources enabled the board of management to complete the year with a balanced budget and cash in hand. It was reported at the annual meeting in the City Council Chamber yesterday afternoon.

All officers of the organization were re-elected at the meeting and reports of the year's activities, covering all branches of the work, were presented. The reports indicated the work of the home had been maintained up to standard this year and the excellent work of preparing younger children for life in the adult world had been continued.

The officers again returned were: J. A. Sayward, president; Reginald Hayward, secretary; A. R. Wolfenden, treasurer; Reginald Genn, auditor; and J. B. Clearhugh, solicitor. Drs. F. M. Bryant and W. Gibson were named honorary physician and dentist, respectively. The officers were elected at a meeting of the new board of management which followed the general meeting.

There were thirty-six inmates in the home as at November 30, it was shown, twenty-one being girls and fifteen boys. There were eight admitted, four boys and four girls. Twenty-six children left the institution during the year, including seven boys, four girls and fifteen Doukhobor children who were returned to relatives. The general health was reported as very good.

Mrs. Dinmore noted the number in the home was smaller now than it had been for some time. She stated two of the older girls had left the home during the year, one being given employment in a good home, where her services had been reported as being very satisfactory, while the other had entered a Bible Training School. She was gratified to notice excellent results from the girls' training in the home.

The following revenue was received from special works, she said: linen shower, $32.35, with other donations; tag day, $394.60; and pound party, $70.25, with donations of fruit and groceries. She expressed thanks to Mrs. Bryant and Gibson for their services and also to the Barbers' Union of Victoria for services rendered. Tribute was also paid to the work of the staff.

A general vote of thanks was unanimously passed to the many organizations which had assisted the home and to The Times and The Colonist.

The audited financial statement was presented by A. Wolfenden, showing a bank balance of $2,508.01 at November 30. General revenue in 1933 totalled $7,309.04, which represented an amount $208.76 less than that received from this source last year. Extraordinary receipts amounted to $332.84, or $783.04 less than in 1932. This year's disbursements aggregated $7,638.52, which was $150.27 more than last year.

The following were elected to the board of managers for the ensuing year: J. A. Sayward, Reginald Hayward, A. R. Wolfenden, J. L. Mara, Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, Rev. A. deB. Owen, Thomas Humphries, William Spencer, A. W. Trevett, J. B. Gentry, W. J. Richards, and Arthur Lee.

The board approved of the following committee for the next year: Finance committee, Messrs. Wolfenden, Lee, Spencer and Mara; repairs committee, Messrs. Sayward, Mara, and W. J. Richards.

MIGRATION OF SQUIRRELS SEEN

Little Animals Traveling in Thousands in Northeastern United States

By Dale Harrison, Associated Press

New York, Dec. 13.—The winter of 1933-4 may go down in the books as the date of the great big trek of the little gray squirrels.

The rodents are up to something. In Massachusetts, Connecticut and eastern New York they are taking it on the lam. Not all squirrels are moving—just the gray squirrels.

A woman motorist reported seeing hundreds of them scampering across the Bear Mountain Bridge over the Hudson River. She had to drive carefully, she said, to avoid running them down. The situation is obviously serious when a squirrel has not enough pep to get out of the way of an automobile.

Forest workers near Highland, N.Y., tell of seeing them swimming the Hudson by the hundreds.

"Nobody seems to know how far they go," said George G. Goodwin, assistant to the curator of mammals at the American Museum of Natural History here. "The situation is comparable to the movements of the lemmings in Norway, where thousands of them go out to sea and are drowned."

The analogy will doubtless interest all who are familiar with the eccentricities of Norway's lemmings. The rest of the public can wait and see what happens.

ON WAY WEST

"So the squirrels are going west, eh?" said a gentleman busily engaged in scraping ice off the sidewalk. "They probably expect to find more nuts out there. Ha, ha."

"You see, from the west," pointed out the inquirer.

"Yeah. Tooty-toot Street."

Judge Wants No Wynekoop Letters

Associated Press

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Those having ideas about the Wynekoop case should better not forward them to Judge Joseph B. David. He might send the writers to jail.

Judge David, scheduled to preside at the trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, charged with the slaying of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, yesterday said he might have to take drastic action to stop the flow of hundreds of letters he was receiving from persons expressing opinions.

He pointed out it was a direct contempt of court to write a judge regarding a pending case.

STEER SOLD FOR $331

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 13.—A twelve-year-old Ohio boy, Lloyd George Kerns of Marysville, yesterday won the grand championship of the Buffalo Junior Livestock Show with a 1,190-pound Hereford "baby steer." Lloyd told the judges he had fed his entry "plenty of corn."

The grand champion steer, auctioned off, brought its young owner $331.

Public Advised To Mail Early

As there will be no mail delivery by letter carriers in the United States, and probably none in Canada on Christmas Day, it is advised by Postmaster G. H. Cardiner that all letters and packages for the two countries be posted a little earlier this year. Christmas Eve is a Sunday, so that the last day for delivery before Christmas will be December 23.

Parcels and letters for the Maritime Provinces should be mailed by to-morrow night, and for Ontario and Quebec not later than Friday or Saturday. For Manitoba, letters and parcels should be posted not later than Monday, and for Saskatchewan and Alberta not later than next Tuesday.

Vancouver city letters and parcels should be mailed not later than December 21, and local letters on December 21 and 22.

Mails for Prince Rupert will close at 1:30 o'clock next Monday afternoon and again at 1:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

DANCE TO AID HAMPER FUND

A dance in aid of the Christmas hamper fund in Saanich will be staged in the Mount View High School Auditorium on Friday night, between 9 and 1 o'clock. The affair is being sponsored by the Ward Seven Liberal Association.

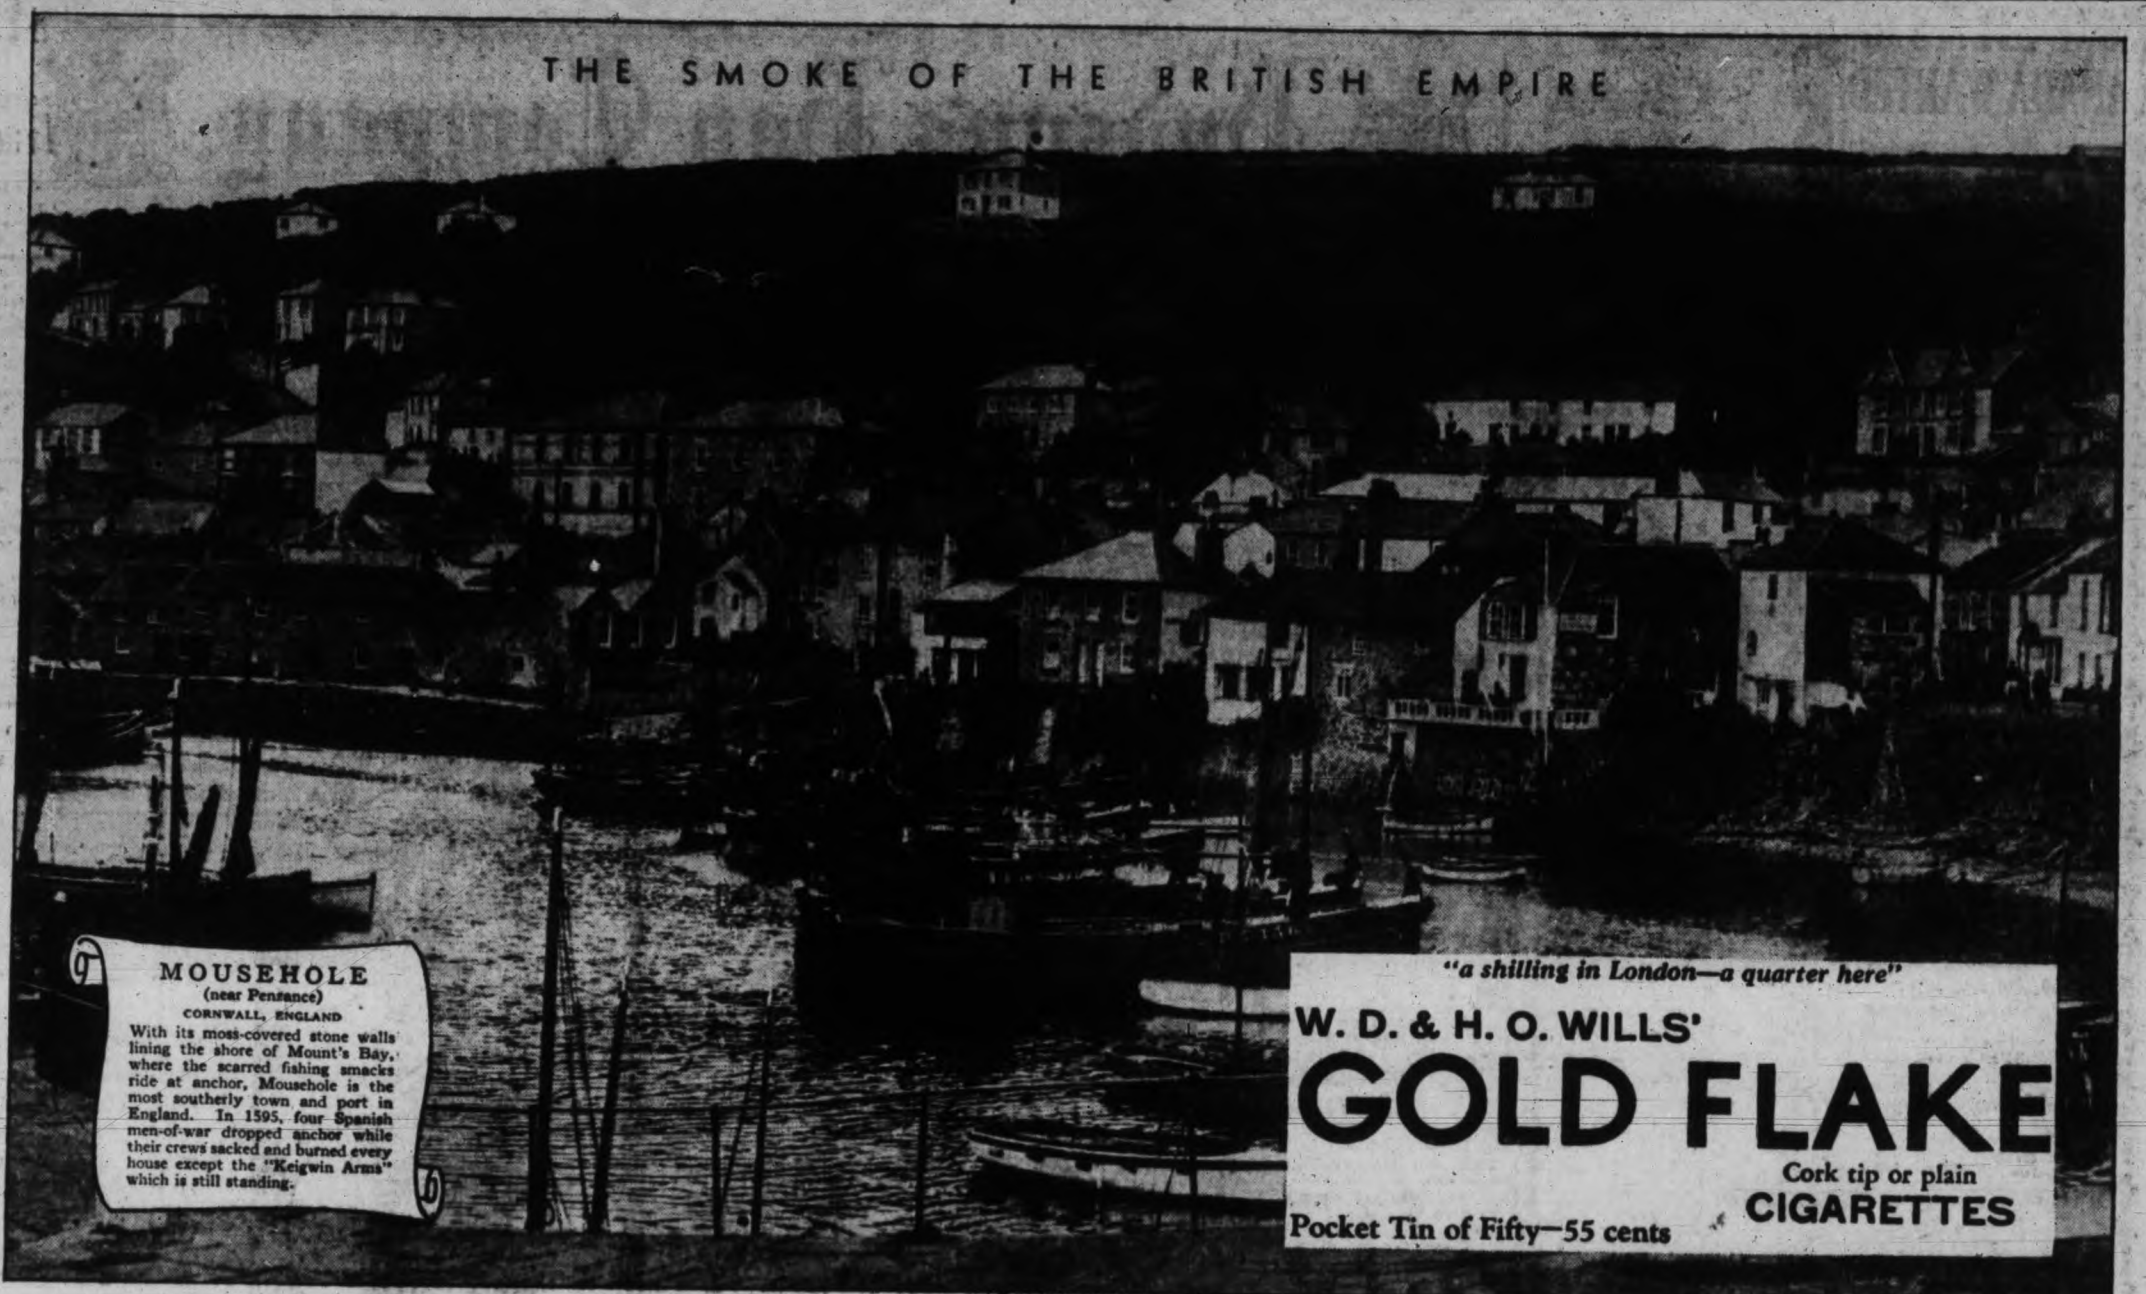

An energetic committee, under the chairmanship of Edward Wilkinson, president of the association, is making every effort to insure the success of the affair, and a generous response from residents of the municipality is urged to assist the worthy cause. Evelyn Holt's orchestra will provide the music, and refreshments will be served.

EXTRADITION WAS REFUSED

Vancouver, Dec. 13.—Extradition was refused yesterday by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson of Howard Brown to the United States on charges of bribing customs officers of the republic and of aiding and abetting the alleged offence. Brown was released from custody. The application was refused on the ground the alleged bribery took place in British Columbia, and that there was no evidence, in the opinion of the judge, that Brown had aided and abetted the commission of the offence in the United States.

The charges recited bribery of United States customs officers four years ago in connection with alleged smuggling of liquor across the British Columbia-Montana border.

MORE FILMS ON CANADA WANTED

W. T. Straith Tells Kiwanis Club of Efforts to Secure National Pictures

Efforts being made here to stimulate the presentation of Canadian-made pictures and films suitable for children were explained by W. T. Straith, president of the Canadian Club, at the Kiwanis luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Straith spoke when W. G. Smith, Winnipeg, social welfare worker, traveling across Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Club, was unable to give his scheduled address owing to a throat infection.

It had been the objective of the British Columbia regional council of Canadian Clubs to provide speakers on matters of public interest for the smaller clubs in the province, Mr. Straith said.

Another of that body's aims had been to provide children with films of Canadian life. In this respect he spoke of pictures which had been shown previously, stressing the popularity of those produced by the National Parks Department under J. C. Campbell.

Arrangements had been completed, he said, for weekly showings of films of a purely Canadian nature along with comic pictures suitable for audiences of more tender years. The Famous Players company had co-operated greatly in this work and had provided a Saturday morning show in Victoria last week as the first of a series for youngsters.

J. B. Clearhugh, president of the Kiwanis Club, expressed the appreciation of his organization for the work the Canadian Club was doing in this respect.

During the meeting the members heard a request for support from a representative of the Little Theatre Association, which will produce "Uncle Tom's Cabin" here on Christmas evening and Boxing Day.

Announcement was made envelopes secured from the Christmas Seal Campaign would be opened Friday evening.

J. D. Galloway, a prospective member of the club, was introduced at the luncheon, which was concluded with a mock election campaign in which several of the members participated.

TO GET NAMES BACK ON LIST

Persons Who Failed to Vote at Election Get Chance to Stay on

Hundreds of persons of long residence here who found when they went to the polling booth at the recent election that their names had been removed from the voters' list, will have a chance to get their names restored to the list immediately.

Registration officials here under the Provincial Government to-day inaugurated a move to get all persons threatened with disenfranchisement through having failed to vote at the last election back in good standing on the list.

The campaign is being inaugurated in the Esquimalt riding. On November 2, a total of 1,000 voters failed to use their franchise in Esquimalt and under the law will have their names removed from the list.

All such voters will have until the next court of revision, on January 15, 1934, to restate themselves in good voting standing. To do this it is necessary to fill out a form which is now being sent out to persons affected. Others who had been struck off before will be able to get back on the list by appearing before the registrar of voters at the Court House.

ARMY AIDING CITY'S NEEDY

"Keep the Pot Boiling" Again Heard in Streets as Christmas Appeal Made

"Keep the pot boiling" will be a familiar cry heard upon the street corners in every town and city throughout Canada from now until a late hour on Christmas Eve, the jingle of the sleigh bells giving a seasonable greeting to all Christmas shoppers, and inviting contributions to the Christmas cheer and winter relief fund of the Salvation Army.

Adjutant Sharp, secretary of the relief board, reports an increase over last year in the number of needy families investigated to date, and the army is desirous of being in a position to meet every case of need.

Already a considerable amount of relief has been supplied for urgent cases, and many expressions of gratitude have been received for the food and clothing supplied. Funds are urgently needed and those responsible appreciate the fact that a number have realized this, and have sent in their usual donations. Some others have increased their contribution this year and it is hoped that the response to the "pots" will be a generous one.

INSPECTION FEE FOR SMALL FILMS

Regulations covering censorship inspection fees for sixteen millimetre moving picture films which are becoming extensively used for lectures and for shows in small communities, have been approved by the British Columbia government.

The films, which can be shown with small portable machines, are now in great demand in the province and film exchanges have been established at which the operators can secure new pictures for their lectures and shows. The regulations set a $25 license fee for the exchange dealing exclusively in the sixteen millimetre films.

The inspection fee for the films is $1.50 for each 400 feet or fraction of 400 feet for sound films, and 75 cents for 400 feet or fraction of 400 feet for silent films. Inspection of additional films is at the rate of $1 for the sound films and 75 cents for the silent films.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Neither Arthur Johnston nor Sam Coslow, ace composers of Hollywood ever took a piano lesson.

Yet these boys have written the hit tunes for Paramount's latest film musical, "Too Much Harmony," showing at the Columbia Theatre, with a cast featuring Blac Crosby, Jack Oakie, Skeets Gallagher, Judith Allen, Harry Green, Lilian Tashman and Ned Sparks. The tunes for the new show include "Thanks," "The Day You Came Along," "Buckin' the Wind," "Cradle Me With a Hot," "a Lullaby," "Black Moonlight" and "Boo-oo-Boo."

Famous Radio Star Coming

The famous voice of "Baron Munchausen," familiar to millions of radio fans, takes on itself a corporeal being and for the first time in the history of the screen "The Baron" is seen as well as heard.

This occurs in "Meet the Baron," playing at the Dominion Theatre, starting Thursday, in which Jack Pearl, the famous radio "Baron," makes his picture debut. He cavorts with Jimmy Durante, Zasu Pitts and others in hilarious adventure in a girl's college.

This Baron Munchausen is a slight, handsome fellow with an aristocratic face, who uses misfit clothes to make himself look as funny as he sounds. He is a clever actor, too. There are real heart throbs in his love-making with Zasu Pitts. He has that Chaplin-like trick of putting just a touch of human nature into comedy.

The story deals with Julius, the valet, being forced to impersonate the real Baron, trying to lecture for him, and getting into hilarious trouble, aided and abetted by Jimmy Durante as his "manager." He does a love sequence with Zasu Pitts sitting on a cake of ice in an icebox that is a classic in laughter. His and Durante's arrival at the college on an elephant is a howl.

COLORFUL SCENE FOR PREMIERE

Victoria theatregoers are anticipating with keen delight the first premiere showing of "The Crimson Paradise," the first product of the local motion picture company and the first all-talking full-length feature to be produced in Canada. It should be an outstanding success, according to the advance bookings. Many notables will be in the audience and the Premier, the mayor and the feature players of the cast will be presented from the stage.

It is planned to make this a premiere showing equal to any field in Hollywood. The microphones will be at the entrance of the Capitol Theatre and the guest artists will go on the air over station CFTC. A mass of lights will play over the entrance and the sky.

Ruth Chatterton Here To-morrow

Ruth Chatterton, who has many accomplishments besides being one of the finest actresses of either stage or screen, astonished her friends with a new one that they did not know she possessed.

She is an expert rifle shot. This was discovered during the production of the First National picture, "Female," which comes to the Capitol Theatre to-morrow. In one scene, Miss Chatterton, who is flirtatiously inclined, enters a shooting contest in order to make the acquaintance of a handsome stranger (George Brent), upon whom she has cast designing eyes.

DOMINION THEATRE

Nine masked beauties, selected for their perfect figures and grace, do a colorful gypsy dance in the Mardi Gras scenes in Constance Bennett's starring film, "Bed of Roses," at the Dominion Theatre.

The girls were trained for the picturesque dance routine by Harold Hecht, one of the screen's foremost ballet masters. Hecht chose his nine performers from the ranks of more than 200 dancers he has trained.

Appearance of a number of wild swans in South Saanich and in the city limits prompted W. H. Warren, city parks superintendent, to draw attention to the fact that these birds are protected under federal legislation and should not be molested. Reports of the birds were first believed to have been from escape of some of the domestic birds in the city ponds, but it has been discovered there are wild swans in the vicinity. They are distinct from the domestic variety in that they have black instead of orange beaks.

Judge Lamphun to-day handed down two judgments. In the case of Jagat Singh and Nama against Mass Singh over the purchase and title to a Saanich property, he decided the plaintiffs were entitled to the amount claimed, while Mass Singh was entitled to certain set-offs, with six weeks for redemption. As the plaintiff had to get a vital amendment to the judgment, the defendant was entitled to costs up to the time the amendment was made. In the other case, that of Knott vs. Halliday, the plaintiff, money owing on a Johnson Street property by a tenant, the judge awarded the plaintiff judgment for $31.50.

MEN'S FORUM
HOLDS DEBATENewly-formed Oak Bay Club
Holds Discussion on Present Systems

The recently formed Oak Bay Men's Forum held its regular monthly meeting Monday evening in the Oak Bay United Sunday School room. This organization at its November meeting, held a discourse on the "Present Economic System, its Origin, its Achievements, its Failings." There was not, however, sufficient time to complete the discussion, and so on Monday Capt. F. Wright delivered an address on the "Failings of the Existing Economic System." In his talk the speaker attacked certain statements made at the previous meeting by A. Carruthers. The latter, outlining the achievements of the capitalist system, stated that system had fulfilled the inherent human desire to possess something tangible.

When has the capitalist system ever provided the masses with the means to make life worthwhile? asked Capt. Wright. Recovery is the world-wide cry. Recovery to what? In order to explain this point more fully, the speaker took Great Britain for an example, and showed that never under the present system, had that country been free from either unemployment or poverty, even in the boom years before the Great War. He also touched on the financial problem and the possibility of a third world war. In the course of the discussion Dr. G. B. Switzer declared that a system which was not ethically sound could never be economically sound. He could not see how capitalism could be economically sound when it was based on such principles as private profit, greed and selfishness.

ACCLAIM FOR
ARION CLUBFirst Concert of Season
Draws Appreciative Audience

By G. J. D.

The Arion Club (male voices), now in its forty-second season, still draws its large audiences and enunciates its high standards of choral music. Again, in its first concert of the season, the club drew over five hundred friends and supporters yesterday evening in the Empress Hotel ballroom, who once more were thoroughly pleased and demonstrative, insisting on repetitions on several occasions.

Whether it was the members who were back in the familiar old-time stamping-ground—apart from a few lapses from true pitch and an apparent tiredness in the latter part of a two hours' programme—seldom, in later years at any rate, has the club so surpassed itself. Light and shade, finely disciplined and expressed, delightfully achieved were the unaccompanied numbers, wherein dwells much beauty in the Arion's, and throughout articulation was very deserving, and where interpretive skill, phrasing, precision and unanimity were all alike admirable. The club's conductor, Frank Sehl, deserves much thanks all around, coupling in the name of Mr. Hughes, who in good style and alertness assisted in conducting the three numbers, "Carmena" (vocal solo), by Lane Wilson; "The Musical Trust" (Henry Hadley), which so pleased that its repetition was insisted upon, and the famous "Invocation to Thor," now the Night in Starlit Splendor, by Donizetti, which also was repeated.

NEW NUMBERS HEARD

Many of the numbers had been heard before in former seasons and Mr. Sehl's new additions yesterday evening were "Carmena" (Franco Leoni), "The Musical Trust" and "Tally Ho" (Franco Leoni), the latter proving exceedingly popular, and was one of the club's delightful repetitions. In this the words came over splendidly, as they did in the concluding number, the fine Viking song, by Coleridge-Taylor, but the "Clang, clang, clang" suffered in spirit from the season already pointed out and was not up to a former rendering as sung five years ago.

The chief number was "W. W. Christie's" "The Legend of the Banded Bow," in which the solo part was taken by Miss Nora Jones, and two pianos were used in its accompaniment, played by Mrs. C. C. Wain, the club's accompanist, and Mr. Hughes, a member of the club.

SOLOIST IS THOUGHTFUL

Miss Jones always approaches her work with thoughtful handling, that makes for surety in herself and gives her listeners the impression that she must be on perfect terms and understanding. This was again conveyed yesterday evening, not only in the solo part—how beautiful was her limpid voice in the lines "Mother, stay not thou thy body, and 'Tis must learn the battle's joy." She too, seems to master the art of projecting her voice, an art not always sufficiently practiced by vocalists. She achieved much success also in an augmented group of songs which included one of Hugo Wolf's gifts of Lieder writing, in the beautiful song "Secrecy," revealing in the singing her sterling vocal and artistic gifts. Miss Jones was demonstratively recalled, giving in response a fine setting, "The Sleigh" (Richard Strauss).

ACCOMPLISHED VIOLINIST

Irene Bick, assisting artist, is a violinist of no mean accomplishment, and in her group of solos evinced good style and much natural ability. Always an earnest student, she plays with a measure brimful of her capabilities of the instrument of her choice, and with that artistic sensitiveness that ought to go far in the future for her. Her tone is quite warm and good, and she plays with taste and feeling. She played "Chanson Louis XIII et Pavane" (Couperin-Kreisler), Cyril Scott's "Lotus Land" and the "Soleil" by "Zigeunerweisen," by Sarasate, known so well to all violinists. Miss Bick was warmly received and insistently recalled, to which she replied with Rubens' arrangement of "Masseenet work, and was well accompanied by Eileen Dumbleton.

Mrs. Clifford Wain played the club's accompaniments with sensitive musicianship.

WAR VETERAN
IS LAID TO REST

Funeral services were held at St. Barnabas Church this morning for a veteran of the Great War who passed away on Sunday at the Jubilee Hospital. Rev. N. E. Smith conducted the service, during which the hymns sung were "Pleasant Are Thy Courts Above," "Alleluiah, the Strife Is Over, the Battle Won." The casket was covered with the Union Jack and surrounded by the many beautiful floral tributes received from a wide circle of friends. Interment was made in St. Mary's Churchyard, Metcalfe, the pallbearers being: E. J. Taylor, C. Postington, T. L. Perry, H. Okell and A. MacArthur, who represented the Department of Pensions and Health.

PATROL SIGHTS
MORE WRECKAGE

Sighting of more wreckage on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, believed to be part of the wrecked boat lost in the rate last Wednesday, is proceeding to here to-day by the Dominion Government wireless station.

According to the report, it was sighted by the R.C.M.P. patrol boat Adversus and consisted of a forward deck, painted white, with two port holes on each side. It was about 100 feet long and was unable to take it in tow. It is understood the Government patrol boat is proceeding to the location to examine the wreckage.

There was no report from the P.M.L. 7, stationed at Alberni, this morning, it being understood the boat left her station to view the wreckage reported yesterday at Ucluelet.

DISCUSS AID
FOR PROVINCES

Alberta and Saskatchewan

Suggested Conditions May Be Imposed With Financial Aid
From Dominion

Granting by the Dominion Government of $1,000,000 loans to Alberta and Saskatchewan at 5 per cent interest and of $100,000 to Manitoba for extra relief in the drought stricken southwestern area of that province has prompted discussion in the east as to the measure of federal control which the Dominion Government might insist upon for federal control if the policy of making loans to the provinces is followed.

Noting the $1,000,000 grant to Alberta and Saskatchewan, Hon. E. A. McPherson, K.C., provincial Treasurer of Manitoba, remarked, according to Winnipeg reports, that that province, too, would greatly welcome a loan of $1,000,000 to enable the province not only to finance its own share of relief but also to enable the province to loan money to municipalities to pay their proportions of relief.

The Montreal Star notes that some of the other provinces of Canada may be applying to Ottawa before long for aid in respect to local services. The question has been raised, although it has not been before the federal cabinet, says an Ottawa dispatch to The Star as to what control may or should be exercised and whether the Dominion Government should intervene in such circumstances and appoint a representative to supervise expenditures within the province. There has been considerable discussion on the point but not yet in the federal cabinet.

Last spring, in a communication to the western governments, Premier Bennett expressed the view they should balance their budgets and appoint controllers satisfactory to the Dominion. At the same time the controller of the treasury went to Manitoba and Saskatchewan to ascertain how they were operating their finances and gave any helpful suggestions he could.

"Nothing came of the controller's suggestion," says the dispatch. It is pointed out there is a constitutional bar to setting up Dominion control of finance within a province as each province has a sovereign power in this sphere. If the Dominion Government, however, decided to give aid for the purpose of the view is expressed that it could impose what conditions it thought proper and could make the aid contingent on the acceptance of such conditions.

The financial relationships between the Dominion Government and the provincial governments are reported to be the subject of repeated discussions at Ottawa but the restrictions which might be made a condition of federal aid are reported to have only reached the talk stage.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO NATIVE SON

Many at Funeral Yesterday of
Freeman G. Brynolson

With every evidence of the sorrow and esteem of a wide circle of friends, the remains of Freeman George Brynolson, native son of Victoria and well-known Seattle lumberman, who was accidentally shot while hunting on December 6, were laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park yesterday afternoon.

The services were held in Christ Church Cathedral in the presence of a large congregation. Very Rev. C. S. Johnston officiating. Members of Henderson Lodge No. 84, A.F. and A.M. attended the service in a body and formed a guard of honor as the cortege left the cathedral. Mr. Brynolson was a member of Arcana Lodge, No. 87, of Seattle.

Two hymns were sung: "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" and "Jesus Lives, Thy Terror Can No Longer Death Appal Us." As the funeral procession passed the graves of the Brynolson family, the hymn "The Dead March" was played.

The pallbearers were: J. T. Armstrong, E. J. Daly, George S. Harrison, Warren Bean, J. T. Steeb and Thomas Kelly as the active pallbearers, and A. K. Selnes, Joseph Moss, P. D. Gordon and Donald McGillivray as honorary pallbearers.

Those who attended the funeral from out of the city were: Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Bromfield, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Steeb, Miss L. von Plenta, Miss Jenkins, Ray Norris, Mr. and Mrs. A. and Mrs. Joseph Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bean, and Mr. Melvin of Seattle; E. Cars driven by Donald McGillivray, 1054 Pandora Avenue, west on Pandora Avenue, and by James L. Dunlop, 1960 Landowne Road, north on Quadra Street, collided at the intersection yesterday evening. While the occupants were not hurt, both cars were badly damaged. The McGillivray car struck a pole near the northeast corner and the other ran over the sidewalk into a gasoline station yard.

How the Christmas tree originated? Ans: The evergreen Christmas tree was first used in Germany. Torchy Peden Credited With Helping Rangers Win Hockey Game

Great Six-day Bike Win Over Goulet and Grenda Recalled

Ended Their Careers to Take First Place at New York

TORCHY PEDEN, Victoria's famous six-day bicycle rider, is now receiving credit for playing a part in helping Lester Patrick's New York Rangers win a National Hockey League game from the Chicago Black Hawks at Madison Square Garden the other night. Here's the story. Peden was one of the 16,000 spectators at the Garden that evening. Less than twenty-four hours earlier he and Al Letourneur, France, concluded a six-day stay at the Garden by winning the pedal-pushing marathon. A glutton for punishment Peden returned to the scene of his triumph to cheer for Lester's warriors.

Peden was escorted near the Rangers' bench when the teams made ready for the overtime after three scoreless periods. Frank Boucher, veteran centre of the New York team spotted him. "Hey," he shouted at the redhead, "rub my stick for luck, will you? Put some of the stuff on it that helps you win those bike races." Solemnly and diligently, Peden massaged the war club. Nine minutes and thirty-four seconds later his magic bore fruit. Boucher scored, to give the Rangers a 1 to 0 victory. Peden's whoop was the loudest of all. Boucher asked for luck and he received it. Goulet, Chuck Gaudin, Chicago defence man, attempted to deflect the puck with his stick. He did—right into his own net.

While speaking of six-day races it is a good time to tell about a race that is well remembered by Reggie McNamara and Dave Lands, two of the oldest riders in the sport to-day. It was one of the greatest six-days of all time and was won by Goulet and Grenda ten years ago in old Madison Square Garden. It was in the last full minute of frenzied action by a team that refused to lose. . . a team that made this its farewell gesture to the sport that burns up bodies. . . Goulet and Grenda, who were again . . . but they would win this!

Dave Lands was one of the youngsters of the sport then. He was teamed with Sammy Gastman, a little New York Jew. . . as the field came up to the last hour of the sixth day, Gastman and Lands stole a lap on the field. . . though the veterans Goulet and Grenda were ahead on points, that lap meant victory for the young team. . . it was too much to expect from the necked bodies of Gastman, Goulet, and Lands. . . his companion, big Tasmanian Grenda, that they should make up that lap after the horrible siege they had been through.

But fifteen minutes before the final gun, a roar went up from the packed house: "There goes Goulet!" . . . and there he did go, tired legs twinkling, rubber tires singing beneath him as he whirled. . . he caught the cue and whipped up his wheel. . . Goulet roared up to him, gave him the shove and away he went while Goulet coasted and fought to pack a breath of air into his blazing track. . . it was the last roundup, and the worst, but Grenda would not fail. . . he drove madly after the tail-enders of the pack. . . round after round. . . then Goulet loomed suddenly before him, and he gave him the push. . . the throng roared for Goulet as he flew on after the pack, gaining inch by inch as the clock crept to the hour. . . with less than a minute left, after 144 hours of this mad drive, with every bit of force his beaten body could summon . . . he caught them!

The precious lap had been won. . . it was all over. . . more than that. . . it was all over forever for Goulet. . . for they never were to win again. . . but they won the six-day race of the century. . . from the dim '20's when men rode the old high-wheelers in the first of such grisly grinds right down to this day, there never has been another like that won in the last few fleeting seconds of a race.

Did you know that— When old Reggie McNamara climbed aboard his bicycle to compete in the last race at New York he was competing in his ninety-sixth six-day bike race. . . the following figures show what experience he carried on his boards with him. . . In his race so far he has covered some 114,000 miles at a pace that doesn't make for longevity. . . that is five times around the world, pedalling on tracks that is a maze of whirling wheels and pounding legs. . . Despite a face and body scarred by countless falls, the "Iron Man" can still get up on those pedals and sprint with the best of them.

HOOP RIVALS MEET TO-NIGHT

Panorium Girls and Adverts to Clash in Feature at High School Gymnasium

Will the Panorium girls be able to repeat the victory they scored over the league-leading Adverts in an exhibition game at Lake Hill recently, or will the top-birth holders flash the same form that carried them to victory in their only other meeting?

That is the question puzzling hoop enthusiasts who will journey to the High School gym this evening to watch the two squads clash in the feature match of a three-game card. It will be a slightly different story from the last exhibition meeting of the two teams. The Adverts will be out with their team at full strength. That will be a hardship to Alan Le Marquand's squad, lacking in particular strong reserve talent.

In the other games on the bill, Young Blue Ribbons will meet the Beavers in an intermediate A division curtain raiser at 7:30 o'clock and the Tillamook and Lake Hill will appear in the senior B fixture.

Lengthy Feud Between N.H.L. Teams Develops Into Open War With Serious Results; Frank Patrick Awaits Reports of Officials Before Taking Action; Leafs Won 4 to 1

AMERICANS HAND RANGERS DEFEAT

A feud that has colored Boston-Toronto clashes for years threatened development of open war between the two National Hockey League clubs to-day, as team officials considered their positions after yesterday evening's battle in Boston. Frank Patrick, league managing-director, awaited reports from the officials, Odie Cleghorn and Eusebe Daigneault, before moving to punish players involved in the clashes which sent Irvin Bailey, Leaf winger, to hospital with a possible skull fracture and left Eddie Shore, bruising Bruin defenceman, with a seven-stitch wound in his head.

Patrick is expected to act quickly and mete out stern punishment if it is deserved. Club officials may protest if they feel their players are being harshly dealt with or accept his decisions as he promised when he came east from Vancouver to take his present position. Moves of the league official and club heads now may determine his authority in future cases of the kind.

BAILEY GOES DOWN

Accounts of the second period clash in the game which Leafs won 4 to 1 differed, but it was generally agreed Shore tripped Bailey from behind while the Leaf was far from the puck. "Ace" fell heavily to the ice and remained unconscious for ten minutes suffering from convulsions.

"Red" Horner, as fiery in temper as his hair is red, saw the trip, skated over to Shore and after speaking a few words struck him heavily with his right fist. The Alberta farmer's head struck the ice with such force he suffered a three-inch gash. Frank Selke, Toronto official, said he never saw a man hit harder in his life.

The battle followed minor skirmishes early in the period which did no real damage. Observers at the game blamed the officials for the outbreak, claiming they had allowed many infractions of the rules to stand and let the players get out of hand.

Both players were carried off the ice and while Connie Smythe, the Leafs' manager, was rushing to the side of his injured player, he became involved in a fist fight with several spectators outside of the arena. SMYTHE FACES COURT ACTION BY SPECTATOR

Manager of Toronto Maple Leafs Charged With Assault By L. Kenworthy

Boston, Dec. 13.—A warrant charging Connie Smythe, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, with assault and battery was issued in Municipal Court to-day and three police immediately started out in search of him. The complainant was Leonard Kenworthy, Everett, Mass.

Boston, Dec. 13.—After accompanying Irvin "Ace" Bailey from Boston Garden to the Audubon Hospital, where he remained until he was assured the player was out of danger, Connie Smythe, Toronto Maple Leaf manager, to-day described his part in the Bruins-Leafs skull-cracking battle.

"It was a most regrettable happening," Smythe said at the University Club, his Boston headquarters. "It is too bad that such a great player as Eddie Shore has to be involved in such disgraceful scenes. His tripping of Bailey was entirely unprovoked. 'Why, I was set upon myself when I tried to go to Bailey in our dressing room. . . I had to fight back to defend myself.'"

Led by C. E. Gabler, skipper of the Seattle team, a squad of Sound City badminton stars, including holders of California championships, will invade local courts on Saturday to meet a picked team from the Victoria Garrison Club in an intercity tourney at the Armories.

The fixtures will be in the nature of a return engagement, the Victorians having played in Seattle some weeks ago.

The first matches are scheduled to get underway at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. E. Moscrop and Miss I. Church, California doubles champions, will lead the women's team attack on the local, while Miss L. Other stars of the team will also include Windy Langille, well-known Seattle tennis player, and several stars of the shuttle game. Entertainment features of the tournament will be a tea in the afternoon and a supper-dance at the Empress Hotel in the evening. Tickets for the women's team attack on the local, while Miss L. Beckman, holder of the California women's singles honors, will be one of the chief threats to Victoria's leading women players.

Cricketers Are Numbered Now

The fans from "down under" think this new innovation is quite a good idea. In the above picture is shown cricketers, wearing numbers on their backs, going out to field in a match at Brisbane, Australia. Now the stranger to the game can pretend that he knows them all by name.

"ACE" BAILEY SUFFERING FROM FRACTURE OF SKULL

Boston, Dec. 13.—Irvin "Ace" Bailey, Toronto Maple Leaf, suffered a fractured skull in yesterday evening's game with Boston Bruins, Dr. Martin Crotty announced to-day. His condition is serious but not critical. X-ray photographs revealed the Toronto player had suffered a five-inch fracture extending back from the forehead. He will be out of the game for a lengthy time and will not be able to leave hospital for several weeks, Dr. Crotty indicated.

His condition has shown a marked improvement since yesterday evening, the physician said. Eddie Shore, Boston defenceman, also injured in the game by a blow from the powerful fist of "Red" Horner, was to be X-rayed this afternoon. He received a head-cut which required seven stitches.

Van Kempen-Audy In Bike Race Victory

Capture Cleveland Six-day Jant By Lap Margin; Peden-LePage Are Fourth

Cleveland, Dec. 13.—Blond Jules Audy, Montreal, a comparative youngster in years and in six-day bike riding experience, was considerably wealthier in fortune and fame to-day as the result of winning, with Piet Van Kempen, the long grind which ended here, yesterday evening.

The favored team of Torchy Peden, Victoria, B.C. giant, and Montreal's Henri LePage could do no better than fourth, while the Canadian-American team of Polly Parrott, Victoria, and Andy Cohen, New York, gave up the chase in discouragement an hour before the finish.

Audy and his veteran Dutch partner fought back many challenges in the gruelling closing sprints to take the major share of the purse. In covering 2,501 miles, four laps, they held a lap edge over the second-place team of Frank Bartell, Czechoslovakia, and Fred Ovetz, Belgium.

Earlier in the night the newly-formed combination of Van Slambrouck and DeFillippo withdrew because they were so far behind there was no hope of overtaking the leaders. They joined forces yesterday morning when their partners, Boogmans and Bastis, respectively, withdrew because of illness.

Coal Company Team Gains Hoop Victory

Increasing their 16 to 14 half-time lead, Kingham and Gillespie hoopers dropped in five field goals and six free throws in the second half to defeat the M.C.C.A. 32 to 29 in a fast Sunday School Basketball game exhibition at the association gym yesterday evening. Teams and individual scores follow: Kingham and Gillespie—Anderson 11, Edge 8, McConnell 5, Phillips 2, Turner 3, Berry 1, Allan.

Mack Engages In Wholesale Trade Of Diamond Stars

Grove, Walberg, Cochrane, Earnshaw and Bishop Sent to Other Teams

COCHRANE WILL MANAGE DETROIT

Chicago, Dec. 13.—The biggest baseball player deal of them all was in the bag to-day, and the annual major league meeting settled down to regular business and lesser swaps and sales. Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, had disposed, as had been reported he would, of Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, Mickey Cochrane, George Earnshaw and Max Bishop, getting in return around $300,000 in cash, and Pitcher Bob Kline and Infielder Harold Warstler from Boston Red Sox, and Catcher Charlie Berry from Chicago White Sox.

Boston got Grove, Walberg and Bishop; Cochrane will manage Detroit. Lefty Grove will pitch for Chicago. The White Sox lost a first-string catcher when Berry went, but obtained in return Johnny Pesek, a receiver who figured in the Detroit-Cochrane deal.

The acquisition of Grove, Walberg and Bishop promises to make the Red Sox a real contender for the title next year, while Detroit will be well-healed for catchers, with Cochrane and Ray Hayworth on the roster.

What Philadelphia got out of the deal besides the $300,000 appears much less concrete.

It was reported the Tigers gave $100,000 for Cochrane, who has been at the meeting here; that the Red Sox handed over $125,000 in a straight cash deal for Grove, and Warstler and Kline, along with $50,000 for Walberg and Bishop, and that the White Sox gave $25,000 in cash and Catcher Berry for Earnshaw.

There was no secret among club owners that Mack and his Philadelphia associates were forced to sell their stars to raise money, and that the announcements were with-held until after the Sunday baseball play was voted in Pennsylvania. Also there was no secret the deals were made and the money paid, in most instances, more than two months ago.

Mack's announcement almost completely overshadowed other news. Kenesaw Mountain Landis was signed to another seven-year contract as baseball commissioner, and William Harbridge was given a five-year appointment as president, secretary and treasurer of the American League.

Besides the huge deal numerous other negotiations were on the file. Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis were reported to be tangled up in a sizeable piece of business, while Cincinnati Reds were said to be after catcher Bob O'Farrell of the St. Louis Cardinals as playing manager.

BLACKS TAKE HOOP HONORS

Defeat Cardinals in Victoria High Peden Cup Series 28 to 20

Playing before a crowd of over 200 excited students, the undefeated Victoria High School Blacks marched into first position in the Peden Cup basketball series, by taking the V.H.S. Cardinals into camp by a score of 28 to 20 in yesterday's game played in the High gym. The game was close with both teams showing plenty of speed throughout. The victory gives the Blacks the crown for the first half and a clinch for the final.

Taylor of the Cardinals opened the score with a long basket from centre court, but the Blacks came back strong with a telling attack and quickly ran up a six-point lead only to lose it when Andrews and Taylor of the Cards accounted for three baskets.

Trudeau contributed five points to bring his team up to a 11-to lead at half-time. Closest last ball was played during the initial period and close checking resulted in the low score.

Both teams started strong at the opening of the final half with Hudson and Coates of the Blacks and Andrews and Taylor of the Cards featuring in the scoring. The game saw-sawed till the last two minutes of play, when, with a score of 20-18 for the Blacks, Walker of the Cards tallied from under the hoop. Walker was fouled but failed to convert his free throw. Walls of the Cards, likewise, was awarded a free throw and missed. Surplus of the Blacks was fouled in the scramble after the shot and sunk his point, giving the Blacks a one-point lead. Webster of the Blacks cut loose and in the next time left succeeded in scoring three pretty baskets to put the game on ice. The final score was 28 to 20 for

Old Man Mack Must Be Blue

Chicago, Dec. 13.—It's to-morrow again for that grand old fighting heart and patriarch of baseball, Connie Mack.

Gone for him are his great stars of yesterday, Lefty Grove, Al Simmons, George Earnshaw, Mickey Cochrane, Max Bishop, Jimmy Dykes, Mule Haas and others, but those keen blue eyes that have seen them come and go for almost a half century of baseball are gazing intently and hopefully toward the horizon of to-morrow.

Connie Mack, seventy-one-year-old this month, is starting from the bottom up again. His heart aches, but shucks, he's done it before and he'll get back to the top again.

KEATS DENIES ANY STALLING

Manager of the Edmonton Eskimos Hockey Team Answers Charges of L. Turner

Edmonton, Dec. 13.—Indignant denial to charges of owner Lloyd Turner of the Calgary Tigers professional hockey team that the Eskimos deliberately stalled and refused to "open up the play" in the league fixture between the Tigers and Eskimos at Calgary Monday night, was made by Gordon B. "Duke" Keats, veteran playing manager and owner of the Eskimos, to-day.

Threat by Turner that the Eskimos must open up the play when they fulfil their next Northwestern Hockey League engagement with the Tigers in Calgary next Saturday, "or it will positively be the Edmonton team's last appearance on Calgary ice this season," drew a scornful laugh from the Duke.

Comment of Keats was made following receipt of a dispatch from Calgary quoting Turner as issuing a sharp rebuke to the Edmonton management on tactics of the team in Calgary last Monday.

"NOT RUNNING LEAGUE" Turner is not running the Northwestern League. He cannot say the Eskimos will never play in Calgary again," Keats stated.

"Here," continued the Duke, "who was doing the stalling? Why did not the Tigers open up and force the play?" he asked.

The Eskimo manager followed this by remarking that Turner "invented the stalling game and apparently can't take his own medicine."

The Eskimos play the most open hockey of any team in the league, Keats counters, and contends that tactics of stalling game and apparently can't take his own medicine."

The fourth men's monthly competition, consisting of eighteen holes match play against par, with three-quarters of the handicaps allowed, will be played on December 17 at the Victoria Golf Club. Post entries will be accepted and competitors will choose their opponents and arrange for starting times.

Cancel Workout

Owing to the fact many of the rep team men will be working out with their club fifteen for games on Saturday, the scheduled opening practice of the chosen McKeechle Cup squad has been cancelled. H. A. Tomaloff, coach, announced to-day. The all-stars will begin their training on Monday next, continuing until December 23. On that date the squad will have an outdoor practice, all league games being postponed to facilitate the workout.

U.S. Will Build Single Yacht For Famous Cup Series

Only One Syndicate Formed to Construct Boat For America's Cup Defence

H. S. Vanderbilt Will Be Skipper

New York, Dec. 13. — With the deadline when keels must be laid drawing near, it appeared certain today only one United States yacht would be built to defend the America's Cup next summer against the challenge of T. O. M. Sopwith's British Endeavour.

Where four syndicates were formed for the last defence in 1930, each spent an estimated $1,000,000 dollars, only one blooms in these days of depreciated dollars, and every economy possible will be made in outfitting the new defender.

J. P. Morgan and Harold S. Vanderbilt's brother, Willie K. are said to be the main contributors and the boat will be sailed by Harold S. Vanderbilt, who skipped Enterprise for four straight victories over the late Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, three and one-half years ago.

TWO OTHERS ALTERED
Two of the 1930 quartette of defenders, Yankee and Westward, have been altered to conform to the new cup regulations, but it is expected the boat now being built for the Morgan-Vanderbilt syndicate at the Herreshoff Yards at Bristol, R.I., will carry the stars and stripes against the Union Jack.

As evidence of the new economy, it is said the mainmasts and booms of Enterprise will be recut and refitted to the new boat, thus saving a small fortune.

Call for PHILIP MORRIS—accept no substitute

STRANGE thing—but I bought my first Philip Morris Navy Cut because my wife was so taken with the royal blue and gold package she asked me to try them.

I'm glad she did too because they have just what I've been looking for in a cigarette.

They're mild and cool—always fresh—and suit my taste to a T.

And best of all—I don't have to pay any more for them than other cigarettes.

And Wheat Prices
Close Cent Lower

Winnipeg, Dec. 13.—Lack of export demand coupled with a display of weakness at Chicago and Liverpool sent wheat prices down on the grain exchange to-day and closing quotations were off one cent from the previous finish. Values were easy all day, but hit the low points in the closing stages. Futures quotations were at bottom levels. December wheat ended at 60½¢, May at 63½¢ and July at 64½¢ cents.

Winnipeg prices were firmer than quotations in outside markets due to the light offerings. Buying power was slim, however, and the pressure was sufficient to keep prices at fractionally lower levels.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were almost negligible, while trading throughout was light in volume. Chicago prices slipped about 3½¢ in the nearby months and traders found it hard to determine the reason for weakness in the south.

Liverpool quotations sagged, and quotations at the close of the English market were off ¼¢, while Buenos Aires values eased ½¢.

Cash grain trading was dull and coarse grains values drifted lower.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Liquidation developed in the grain markets late to-day, and May wheat dropped to about 100 cents under Monday's high point. Wheat closed nervous, 1½¢ to 2½¢ cents under yesterday's finish; corn 1½¢ to 1¾¢ down, oats 1½¢ to 1¾¢ off, and provisions unchanged to 27¢ cents lower.

Norfolk Jacket's
Soon For Men

Philadelphia, Dec. 13.—Men are not going to be left entirely out of the parade back to fashions of yesterday, it seems. With designs of women's clothing dragging out the bustle, puff sleeves and the like for midday's wear, the males' stylists have been stirred to action.

Following a meeting of the Philadelphia Club of Clothing Designers yesterday it was announced to-day the Norfolk jacket would come back next spring.

U.S. Ambassador
At Work in Moscow

Moscow, Dec. 13.—William C. Bullitt, new United States ambassador to Russia, to-day presented his credentials to President Mikhail Kalinin. The men of the American embassy were morning coats and silk hats. The Russians appeared in ordinary everyday suits.

London, Dec. 12.—The chartering of two Dutch steamships to load timber and grain in British Columbia for passage to the United Kingdom was raised in the House of Commons to-day, the government being asked if the Board of Trade was taking any action to defend British shipping by concerted action with the dominions, or otherwise.

E. L. Burgin, secretary to the Board of Trade, replied the question raised issues of policy which were under consideration.

JAPANESE PLANTS
MAKE BIG PROFITS

But Possibility of Overproduction of Rayon Next Year and Boosting of Other Countries' Tariffs Affect Stock Markets

By Percy Whiteing, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Tokyo, Dec. 13.—Extraordinary prosperity enjoyed for some time by Japanese rayon manufacturing companies is illustrated by their reported profits for the half year just ending. Nevertheless it is intimated the companies will be extremely cautious in their dividend payment to provide for possible trouble next year.

The Showa rayon mills achieved a profit during the last term of 97 per cent on their capital, their net profit amounting to 4,000,000 yen (currently 31,200,000), while the Asahi Bemberg

Company's net profit of 5,200,000 yen ($1,575,000), equivalent to 32 per cent on capital, is a slender margin. Net earnings of other leading companies, including Takoku Rayon Company, 8,400,000 yen ($2,520,000), or 72 per cent on capital; Kurashiki Rayon Company, 4,400,000 yen ($1,320,000), or 70 per cent on capital; and the Toyo Rayon Company, 4,300,000 yen ($1,290,000), or 58 per cent on capital.

NEW PLANTS

Expansion of existing mills and erection of several new plants have caused pessimistic anticipation of decreased prosperity due to probable overproduction. Retaliatory increases in import tariffs abroad and increased use of staple fibre and other materials are also causing caution among the Japanese manufacturers.

This conservative attitude is already reflected in Tokyo and other stock markets where rayon shares are being comparatively neglected.

Victim of Green-eyed Monster Who Is Wrecking Her Home and Happiness Begs for Cure—How Can Bride Cheer Up Melancholy Husband?

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young woman of twenty-three. Have been married four years and have one child. My problem is this: My jealousy is making life a burden to both my husband and myself. My husband is one of the finest men that ever lived, generous, kind, amiable, loving. He has never been unfaithful to me in any way, but I am suspicious of his every absence, his thoughts, his actions. I am always determining to hide my jealousy, but my self-control gives way and I find myself making scenes. He is always patient and tender, but I have sense enough to realize that he may not always be so. He may get tired of putting up with my unreason. Why do I suffer so? What can I do to cure myself? MISERABLE.

Answer—The man who finds a cure for jealousy will be as much of a benefactor to the human race as the one who discovers a cure for cancer. Nay, more so, for jealousy not only eats out the heart of the one who is afflicted with it, it poisons the lives of all who come in contact with its victims. But so far no one has found an infallible remedy for either ill.

The only advice that I can give to a woman who admits that she is jealous without cause is for her to realize that she is a mental case and consult some good alienist. For she is seeing things. She is imagining things. She is encouraging herself in hallucinations and the sooner she stops it the better, if she does not want to go entirely goofy.

But she has one ray of sanity left in the realization that she is killing her husband's love for her by her continual reproaches about things that he has never done and her suspicions of crimes that he never committed and that it will not be long before he will get tired of being watched and spied upon and of being met by wild-eyed, hysterical fury when he comes home ten minutes late and forced to furnish an alibi for every minute of his day.

When a man lives an upright life, when he is loyal and honorable in all his dealings, and when he is a good, kind, devoted husband, it is a disillusioning experience to him to find that his wife regards him as utterly lacking in all decency and high principles. And that she believes him capable not only of betraying her, but of being so low and vile that he can not be trusted out of her sight, not even to go to a lodge meeting or to spend an evening out of her presence.

Her play would be to make herself more attractive than the Other Woman, to laugh with her husband over his latest crush. Not to watch him, but make him feel free to come and go. The wife who has no jealousy always has a hundred times the chance of holding her husband that the jealous one does.

Every woman knows that her jealousy can ruin her husband quicker than anything else in his business or profession. I get hundreds of letters from men who write me that their wives have driven off their best customers and their patients and their clients, and though the wives know that they must suffer for this, they will not control themselves.

Why do women give rein to their jealousy? Because they are emotionally unbalanced. Because they have never been taught self-control. Because they are selfish and tyrannical and determined to rule their husbands at every cost and to monopolize every particle of their time and thoughts. And most of all because they get a sadistic thrill out of torturing themselves and their husbands with fear and suspicions which offend them not they know to be pure figments of their imaginations and to have no foundation in fact.

But it is a pleasure that they pay for dearly in the loss of their husbands' affection. For jealousy slays love quicker than any other one thing. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married for about six months to a kind and loving husband, but he is subject to melancholia. I have done everything I know to make him see the brighter side of things and make things pleasant. I have even suggested his going free to see if that would help him, but he insists that he does not want to do this and only wants to be happy with me. I am very amiable, easy to get along with, good company and a loving and true wife, yet it all seems to be of no use in cheering him up. What can I do? MRS. A. H.

Answer—A wise man said that whether life is worth living or not depends upon the liver. Perhaps your husband is not well and needs to consult a doctor. It is pretty hard to be bright and cheery when you are feeling half sick. So the first thing to do is to get him around to some good physician and have a thorough examination made.

Dyspepsia is another source of pessimism. A lot more grouching comes from the stomach than from the heart. So if you want your husband to be a little ray of sunshine in the house, feed him on wholesome and easily digested food.

But there are some people who are just morbid by nature, and who get a great kick out of glooming around the house and taking a depressing view of things. If your husband belongs to this type, nothing that you can ever do or say will turn him into a merry, rallying lad. So all you can do is to let him enjoy himself in his own way. But do not take it too seriously. Just reflect that he is having the time of his life when he looks as if he were about to burst into tears, and that when he appears most sunk in melancholy he is really on the peaks of pleasure.

Of course, a human wet blanket is no woman's idea of a comfortable life companion, but having married one, you will have to make the best of it and not let it chill you too much. DOROTHY DIX.
